Inmate Escapes Quentin —Nabbed Pedaling Bike

2 Arresting Officers Say Convict All Wet

By LOREN MacARTHUR

A dripping wet San Quentin escaper who tried to convince San Anselmo police he was on a bicycle ride from Long Beach to Santa Rosa was whisked back to prison early this morning after only four hours of freedom.

Marshall W. Stauffer, 32, a Los Angeles forger, was pedaling away furiously from the San Quentin farm down Sir Francis Drake Boulevard at 4:40 a.m. on a bicycle he had removed from a San Rafael yard.

He told police, who stopped him to find out why he was wet, that his voyage from Long Beach to visit a sister in Santa Rosa had been interrupted by a careless truck drive, who forced him off the road. He said he fell from his bicycle into a ditch.

But Patrolmen Robert Alberigi and Richard Timis didn't buy the story.

In effect, they told Stauffer he was all wet and took him in for questioning.

Officers asked for his identification. Stauffer said he lost his wallet in the ditch. But police noted the man had not lost a hacksaw blade, a screwdriver, pliers, wire cutters, electric wire, razor blade and knife, which were neatly tucked in his clothes.

Stauffer finally admitted he had taken a walk from San Quentin and had fallen into a slough while running toward San Rafael around midnight.

Assistant Chief Sam Serio said Stauffer was escorted to county jail, then reunited with Associate Warden W. D. Achuff and Capt. Carl Hocker of San Quentin, who were glad to see him.

Tired, cold, and nervous, Stauffer was put in isolation this morning.

Stauffer, who arrived at the prison in March 1961, was serving six months to 14 years for forgery and was due before the parole board in June.

He worked on the prison farm, which is surrounded only by a fence, and slept there in a dormitory.

'FAR FROM DEAD'

Marine World Still Has Hope

A Marine World, which was all but turned down by the Mill Valley City Council on Monday, still has a chance of finding a home elsewhere in the county.

This optimistic statement came today from Walter J. Brown, managing director of the Marin Visitors Bureau, which is interested in a marine land "of the San Francisco Aquarium type."

On Monday, Mill Valley City Councilmen rejected by 3 to 2 vote a marine land at Richardson Bay, proposed by San Francisco businessman Bradford Baruh and attorney Phillip Ehrlich Sr.

"But a Marine World for Marin is far from dead," declared Brown this morning. "A lot of people are interested in keeping such a development here in the county. If the proposed developers agree, we are interested in calling a countywide meeting to study the matter further."

Brown disclosed that the Marin Visitors Bureau has received three specific site offers for a Marine World from widely separated parts of Marin County, since the Mill Valley rejection. He said he cannot disclose the offered locations as yet, but they are in "North and Central Marin."

The Marin Visitors Bureau sent a letter to attorney Ehrlich in San Francisco yesterday, asking him and Baruh not to close the door completely on the possibility of a marine world in this county.

"The executive committee of the Marine Visitors Bureau sin-

WHEE! WHERE'S THE FIRE?

San Rafael kiddies whoop it up with a ride on a real fire truck this morning, as firemen observed Fire Service Day in various parts of the county. Firemen Glaude Casartelli (at the wheel) and Dennis Jenson are shown with a truckload at Montecito Shopping Center. San Rafael, Terra Linda, and Ross Fire Departments and county firehouses at Marin City, Throckmorton Ridge, Point Reyes Station and Woodacre all held open houses and displays for citizens. U.S. Will Give Nuclear Facts To NATO Allies

ATHENS (AP) — The U.S. agreed today to give its NATO allies more information on American nuclear stockpiles, an official source said.

The U.S. move was disclosed as the 15 NATO allies, meeting behind closed doors, reportedly adopted a new nuclear policy calling on alliance members to work out "guide lines" on how and when atomic tactical weapons should be used in event of a Soviet attack.

NATO's foreign and defense ministers had been seeking agreement on a joint policy for resort to nuclear arms in case of Red attack that would give President John F. Kennedy the final decision that could unleash a nuclear war.

The plan was contained in a report read by NATO Secretary General Dirk Stikker.

Sources said Italian and French representatives expressed reservations on Stikker's report, but avoided any action that would obstruct implementation.

As a result—informed sources said—the NATO permanent council, which meets in Paris, will handle the information exchange while military representatives of the NATO members work out guide lines.

France reportedly has reservations about the nuclear policy. It does not change Kennedy's right to veto the use of nuclear weapons, something the French reportedly would like to see changed.

Italy has informed Stikker she cannot give formal approval at this session because of the unsettled state of her government.

Titov Says Joint Moon Probe Fine

CHICAGO (AP)—Soviet cosmonaut Gherman Titov said today he would be pleased if the effort to place the first man on the moon was a joint American-Russian project. (See Also Page 2.)

During a brief stopover at O'Hare field on his trip from Baltimore to Seattle, the spaceman was asked when a man would land on the moon.

He shrugged and replied he would be glad if the project were carried out jointly by the United States and the Soviet Union in a special space ship.

"That would be splendid," he said through an interpreter.

Titov also was asked if he thought the U.S. is making a mistake in conducting its space shots in the open.

He said none of the U.S. flights have revealed anything the Russians didn't know.

The Soviet cosmonaut left Baltimore's Friendship Airport earlier en route to Seattle to see Century 21, the world's fair.

Lumber Firm Gets The Word To Stop Burning Its Sawdust

The Henry Hess Lumber Co. Incinerator, which has been the target of criticism in San Rafael for years, will stop belching smoke by July 1, a spokesman for the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District announced today.

Graham Kislingbury, public relations director for the air pollution control district, said today the company filed a letter of compliance with the district, declaring it was "purchasing storage equipment and will cease burning."

A hearing board of the district found the company guilty last March 2 of improper burning and ordered it to install proper equipment or haul away its trash.

Numerous complaints have been received against the burning by the firm, at 629 Third Street, since November, 1960. Benjamin Linksy, pollution control district control officer, said last Aug. 28 he had ordered the firm to quit using its sawdust burner within 60 days.

Numerous residents had complained of the smoke, Linsky said.

Last Sept. 27 Linsky said the company was taking reasonable steps toward compliance with the district control orders. But there were numerous delays in compliance because the firm was expected to move when Highway 101 was widened.

Finally the district cracked down by holding its hearing against Hess.

Kislingbury said today:

"If the July 1 deadline (for ceasing burning) is not met, the established procedure would bring a Superior Court injunction against the lumber company, which would require that it cease operations."

Proposed Rapid Transit Bill Would Aid Marin, Congress Unit Told

I-J Special Report

WASHINGTON — Marin County would get rapid transit service 10 to 12 years sooner if Congress approves federal assistance to rapid transit districts, a congressional committee was told this week.

The witness was Thomas Gray of San Francisco, a director of the San Francisco Bay Area Rapid Transit District. He testified before a House Banking and Currency subcommittee considering President John F. Kennedy's request for authorization of a loan and grant program to help build urban rapid transit systems.

Gray's statement was in response to a question from Rep. Clem Miller (D-Corte Madera), a member of the subcommittee.

Miller asked Gray if enactment of the legislation would make any difference how soon service could be extended to Marin, Napa or Sonoma counties.

"I think I could safely say that Marin County would get a rapid transit system 10 to 12 years quicker," Gray replied.

"There would be an impetus for all of the (North Bay) counties to come in, not only Marin, but also Sonoma and Napa. The funds would be available."

Gray said he based his estimate principally on differences in the property tax base of Marin and the other North Bay counties compared with the three counties—San Francisco, Alameda and Contra Costa — now in the transit district.

Six Construction Jobs Still Halted In Strike

Six major construction jobs remained shut down in Marin County today as a strike of laborers in Northern California entered its fourth day.

Attempts to settle a dispute over wage increases will be made Tuesday and Wednesday when representatives of the Northern California Council of Laborers will meet with Associated General Contractors in San Francisco.

Some building contractors continued to sign independent contracts with the striking laborers, said J. R. Cedarblade of Terra Linda, labor relations director for the contractors.

Laborers seek a $1.15-an-hour package increase of wages and benefits. Employers have offered a 30-cent-an-hour raise over a three-year period.

Picket lines were expected to resume Monday on these major jobs in Marin: the Civic Center, two Safeway stores in San Rafael and Novato, Tiburon sewage plant, Dominican Convent library and a housing tract in Loma Verde.

Some Rain Might Fall Here Tomorrow

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Some rain may fall near the coast from San Francisco northward by tomorrow afternoon, the Weather Bureau said today.

"The rest of the northern area will be cloudy tomorrow, other areas should continue mostly fair," the bureau added.

Venezuelan Forces Advancing On Rebels

CARACAS (UPI) — Government troops drove into the rebel-stronghold of Carupano today and ran into heavy opposition from rebellious Marines who answered the government's surrender-or-die ultimatum with a volley of rifle fire.

A spokesman for President Romulo Betancourt said the nation's military chiefs expected the two-day-old Communist-led revolt would be crushed "within a few hours."

A fierce battle was reported underway in the center of Carupano, a port city about 250 miles east of here, the spokesman added.

Spearheading the government attack on the city, site of an important naval base, was a column of 1,500 loyal marines. They marched on Carupano early this morning from Cariaco, 30 miles away, as the rebel radio said:

"We shall not surrender, even if we are overpowered 10 to one."

The broadcast was in defiance of Betancourt's warning to the rebels, whom he said were attempting a "Cuban-style rebellion," to surrender or be crushed.

UPI correspondent Anthony Valbuena, traveling with the troops who marched on Carupano from Cariaco, said local farmers and fishermen loyal to the government followed behind the government column in trucks and cars. They armed themselves with whatever weapons were available—shotguns, machetes, knives, pistols and clubs.

Valbuena said the march was slowed because of rebel claims that the roads, beaches and general area around Carupano had been heavily mined. The rebels also claimed the harbor was sprinkled with mines, Valbuena reported.

Titov Sinks Yacht Ride

David N. Plant, museum president, had arranged for the guild members to sail at 10 a.m. Tuesday on Dan London's yacht Adventuress for a cruise on the bay.

Then came a call from Washington to Cyril Magnin, president of the San Francisco Port Authority: could he arrange for a yacht cruise for Titov on Tuesday morning.

Magnin could, and did — on London's yacht Adventuress. The museum guild members will have to take a rain check.

The Soviet cosmonaut is scheduled to arrive in San Francisco Monday night from his visit to the Seattle World's Fair.

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

JAYNE AND MICKEY
Why they're still in love!

All Over But The Laughing

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Love is bustin' out all over again on Sunset Boulevard.

Mickey loves Jayne. Jayne loves Mickey.

Actress Jayne Mansfield proved yesterday that divorces can be even briefer than marriages in Hollywood.

About 21 hours after she had filed a divorce suit in nearby Santa Monica, she called a news conference by the heart-shaped pool in her backyard. There to Mickey Hargitay, her Hungarian tarzan, she vowed: "Mickey, I'm your Jayne. I always loved you, darling, even while I was filing for divorce."

As photographers urged Jayne to give Mickey a reconciliation kiss for the early editions, she was explaining why she filed for divorce in the first place:

"Well, Mickey and I had our first big fight," she said. "He didn't want to take the three children and four dogs to Italy while I make a picture, and I did.

"We compromised. We're taking the children, but only one dog."

Single Police Bullet

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UPI) A single police bullet killed a girl and wounded her brother as they fled police on a motorcycle last night.

Mona Sue Houston, 16, died when struck in the chest by the bullet. The bullet struck her brother, Eddie Houston, 20, in the shoulder.

Patrolman O. K. Koon, who fired the shot, said the brother and sister and two other couples failed to halt on a warning after running a red light.

Viet Fighting

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—Fourteen Viet Cong were killed and 171 persons were arrested in a mopping up operation in three southern provinces, a South Viet Nam military communique reported today.

Government forces suffered no losses in the action Wednesday in the provinces of Kien Phong, Kien Tuong and Dinh Tuong, the communique said.

Quake Hits Japan

TOKYO (UPI) — A mild earthquake shook downtown Tokyo today, but there were no reports of damage. One meteorological agency reported the epicenter was on Miyake Jima, an island in the Pacific about 110 miles south of Tokyo.

'JFK Fails Negroes

OAKLAND (AP) — An official of the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People says President John F. Kennedy has failed to live up to his civil rights campaign promises.

Herbert Hill, labor secretary of the NAACP, told a banquet gathering of the Berkeley chapter last night that in 1960 the then Senator Kennedy pledged "a wide range of executive orders" to help Negroes in such fields as education, housing and transportation.

"Mr. President, we are still waiting for that pen to be struck," Hill said.

Bard in USSR

MOSCOW (UPI) — William Shakespeare has been the most popular playwright in the Soviet Republic of Azerbaijan for the past 60 years, with some of his plays running for years, the official news agency Tass said today.

Troops in Berlin

BERLIN (AP) — Gen. Lucius D. Clay told West Berliners today the United States would keep troops in Berlin until the city and German nation were unified, "provided you still want us here."

President John F. Kennedy's personal envoy to Berlin, who is leaving for the United States Tuesday, made the pledge as Mayor Willy Brandt named him an honorary citizen of the city—the first foreigner to get the honor since Czar Nicholas I of Russia.

M'Carthy Remembered

APPLETON, Wis. (UPI)—The annual "McCarthy Motorcade" will leave tomorrow from Milwaukee in commemoration of the death five years ago of Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.).

The motorcade will go to nearby Little Chute, Wis., where a flower wreath will be placed on the late senator's grave.

Titov Enjoys Burned Steak With Glenn

WASHINGTON (AP) — Astronaut John H. Glenn Jr. almost burned the steaks. Cosmonaut Gherman Titov wound up in apron. But everyone seemed to have a wonderful time.

The affair: A spur-of-the-moment cookout at Glenn's modern brick home in nearby Arlington, Va., last night.

In the hurry to get the frozen steaks cooked, someone poured on too much charcoal. A late-arriving guest said it looked like Glenn's garage was going up in flames.

ALL HELP

"Daddy cooked the steak and it almost got burned up," said Glenn's 14-year-old daughter, Carolyn. "But they (Titov and his wife Tamara) seemed to like it. We had a very enjoyable evening."

Glenn said later that everyone put on aprons and pitched in to get the dinner—steak, peas, potato chips, salad and ice cream—on the table.

Maj and Mrs. Titov spent about an hour and a quarter at the Glenns'. Then the two spacemen and their wives hurried to a television studio where Titov and Glenn tape-recorded an interview in which Glenn revealed that the next American to journey in space will tow a balloon behind his capsule to measure the drag in the sky above the earth's atmosphere.

The interview was taped for NBC's "The Nation's Future" tomorrow night.

DINNER PLANS

The Glenns had invited the Titovs to dinner earlier, but plans were rather indefinite until Titov decided about 6 p.m. to take them up on it, a National Aeronautics and Space Administration official said.

At the time, the Glenns were attending a Soviet Embassy reception for Titov and his wife. There followed a mad dash for home to get the steaks out of Mrs. Annie Glenn's freezer.

There was a small crisis when the supply of peas ran low, but a hastily dispatched motorcycle policeman solved that problem.

Barbershop Quartet Preliminary Slated

As a preliminary event to its barbershop quartet show, the Novato Chapter of SPEBSQSA will hold a costume contest among members at 9 p.m. Monday at Cloud Five restaurant, Novato.

Invited to serve as judges are Mayor M. E. Silva, Police Chief Ray McLaren and community club president George McDaniel.

PEACEFUL ORAN SCENE — A youngster carried a toy rifle as his mother held his hand while they walked past French soliders in battle dress on guard at Bastille Place in Oran yesterday. It was an ironic peaceful scene in the terror-stricken Algerian city. (AP Wirephoto)

New Drive On Against OAS

ALGIERS, Algeria (UPI)—The French army and its new allies—a band of Moslem detectives—today spearheaded a drive to crush resistance to Algerian independence and capture four rebel colonels who lead the Secret Army Organization.

The targets of the drive are Oran—the western Algerian stronghold of the outlawed secret army, and Algiers, where OAS terrorists are striking daily with mounting fury.

To make the plan succeed, France is reinforcing Oran's 15,000-man army garrison. These soldiers will be supported by 800 Moslems — most of them former soldiers or policemen who were hastily recruited this week to serve as special detectives in Algiers.

The plan has three immediate objectives:

1. To capture the four ex-colonels who now lead the OAS. Three of them were ringleaders in the abortive Algiers' generals revolt a year ago.

2. Destroy the OAS powerhouse in Oran.

3. Wipe out the remnants of European terrorist bands in Algiers.

The OAS leaders are ex-colonels Antoine Argoud, Yves Goddard, Jean Gardes and Pierre Chateau-Jobert — all seasoned combat veterans. They are regarded as the backbone of the OAS, although former Gen. Paul Gardy succeeded ex-Gen. Raoul Salan as titular head when the OAS leader was arrested in Algiers last month.

Yesterday's cabinet meeting in Paris ended with the announcement that the Algerian referendum on independence will be held in mid-July.

The government reiterated that OAS terrorism would not alter the schedule, which was set by the French-Moslem cease-fire of March 18. The cease-fire agreement guaranteed full independence for Algeria within six months.

Couple 'Adopt' Filipino Boy

An 8-year-old Filipino boy, Eduardo G. De Guzman, has been financially "adopted" by Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Melbostad of 355 Vista Linda, Mill Valley, through Foster Parents' Plan, Inc.

The Melbostads have promised to contribute $15 a month to the boy's support for one year.

Foster Parents Plan is a non-sectarian, non-profit organization that provides aid to orphaned or distressed children in various countries abroad.

18 MORE NEGROES LEAVE THE SOUTH

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—Eighteen Negroes, some seeking jobs and others an escape from discrimination, left Louisiana yesterday on segregationist-financed "freedom rides north." Four more are scheduled to leave tonight.

George Singlemann, a member of the Citizens Council of Greater New Orleans and promoter of the "freedom ride north" campaign, bought one-way tickets for 11 California-bound Negroes last night.

The Louisiana Citizens Council, the parent organization of all councils in the state, yesterday financed one-way bus rides to the Middle West for seven Negroes.

As of last night, Singlemann said, 154 Negroes have left.

'Mud Wave' Threatens Tam Valley

Tamalpais Valley is threatened with a "mud wave."

The problem, as explained to the Tamalpais Valley Improvement Club by H. Steinberg of the Army Corps of Engineers, is this:

Filling of lowlands along Coyote Creek results in squeezing the creek bed upward. This threatens to slow the flow of the creek. Mud and silt then collects, further raising the bed—with floods the eventual result.

Floyd Beaver, Kay Park Homeowners Assn. member, reported his organization has written three authorities to try to fix responsibility for the new flood hazard.

The federal government disclaims responsibility since Coyote Creek is not a naviagble stream, he said.

The state attorney general's office says those who fill must provide adequate and alternate drainage.

But Robert A. Smallman, deputy county counsel, says the county cannot legally prevent a man from developing his own property.

The Tamalpais Valley Improvement Club Thursday night agreed not to oppose George C. Goheen's plan to put fill on a lot at Tennessee Valley Road and Bell Lane—although club officers said this might add to the potential "mud wave."

Performing Arts Fete Adds Films

The 1962 Marin Festival of Performing Arts, scheduled for June 9 and 10 in Angelico Hall of Dominican College, San Rafael, has added motion pictures to its program, with a film program 10 days before the formal opening.

The French comedy, "The Sheep Has Five Legs," with Fernandel, will be shown on May 29 at 8:30 p.m. in the Fairfax Theater, both as a kick-off for the festival and benefit for the newly formed Marin Circle of the Florence Crittenton Home of San Francisco. Champagne will be served during intermission.

The festival itself will open at 2 p.m. June 9 with John and Ann Brebner's dramatic reading in costume of selections from Shakespeare entitled "Shakespeare in Love."

Following an hour's intermission with free entertainment by the Winifred Baker Boys' Chorus at the festival center, the Marin Arts Quartet, assisted by violinist Cicely Edmunds and pianist Robaline Meacham, will present a program of chamber music.

At 8 p.m. will be an evening of dance. Performing will be the Marin Ballet, directed by Leona Norman, the Dick Ford Dancers, and modern dance concert artist Rod Strong.

At 2 p.m. Sunday, June 10, the festival will resume with an hour of puppet and marionette theater by the San Francisco Bay Area Puppeteers' Guild. This program is written primarily for adult audiences.

The West Coast premiere of "Sonata Brevis" by Gardner Read, played by pianist Faith France and violinist Everett O'Bannon, will headline the 4:15 program. Following will be performances by organist Wilbur Russell and the Marin Handbell Choir.

During the Sunday afternoon intermission, Flamenco dancer Mimi Janislawski will entertain. Piper Roderick Aya will also play both Saturday and Sunday at the center.

Closing the festival Sunday at 8 p.m. will be stylized production of Purcell's opera "Dido and Aeneas." This 17th century opera will be directed by Winifred Baker and will feature the Winifred Baker Chorale, tenor Theophilus Stephanou, the Marin Arts Quartet, and Dick Ford Dancers. John Brebner will be narrator.

Cranston Campaigns Here, Urges School Bonds Passage

State Controller Alan Cranston came to Marin County last night in behalf of his candidacy for re-election, to urge passage of the state school bonds and to encourage active participation in politics, "everybody's business."

Cranston was guest of honor at a garden party at the Ross home of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Martin. Mrs. Jules Becker of Tiburon and Albert Gately of Fairfax were co-chairmen of the event.

Mrs. Henry Grady of San Francisco, wife of the former ambassador under President Harry S. Truman, herself a former Democratic national committeewoman and long time friend of Cranston's, predicted a bright future for the controller on the national political level. "Who knows," she declared, "the presidency is sometimes vacant."

Gately, in introducing Cranston to about 150 persons gathered on the Martin's rolling lawn, called him "a great liberal, but not with other people's money."

The controller reviewed the duties of his position, including the issuing of 17,000 checks totaling about 25 million dollars each day. Happily, he said, he has a machine that signs them for him and won't issue a check if there isn't money in that particular account.

Changes he has made, besides reducing the cost of the office's operation for the last two years, includes the investment of large state surpluses formerly kept in checking accounts. In the past three years, he said, 65 million dollars has been earned as interest on invested surplus state funds.

At the same time, he said his office has been able to work out a competition for purchase of state bonds which has reduced the interest rate below the national average and saved millions of dollars.

Entertainment was provided by the Festival Theater's Strawhatters who convulsed the audience with a political satire about a Richard M. Purdy, who was running for governor, and his wife, Pat.

6 Hurt In Marin Auto Accidents

Six persons were injured, but not seriously, in auto accidents yesterday and early today, the California Highway Patrol reported.

The car of John D. Ross, 23, of San Francisco, plunged off Shoreline Highway into a ravine north of Loring Avenue in Homestead when he failed to negotiate a hairpin turn at about 1:30 a.m. today, officers said.

The car of Mrs. Margaret N. Kjos, 41, of 101 Melrose Avenue, Mill Valley, going north on Bridgeway Boulevard in Sausalito, collided with a pickup truck driven by John Eugene Smith, 44, of 206 Gibson Street, Mill Valley, at about 1:05 a.m.

Officers said Smith was heading south on Bridgeway and turning into Gate 5, Marinship. Mrs. Kjos was treated for a cut lip at Marin General Hospital and released.

A convertible driven by Gary F. Muggenthaler, 18, of 240 Humboldt Street, San Rafael, hit a tree along the Belle Avenue turnoff from Highway 101 about 12:40 a.m. today. He suffered cut lips and several broken teeth. A passenger, Steven J. Haase, 17, of 123 Belle Avenue, suffered a cut chin.

Muggenthaler said he turned off the highway when a car behind him approached him so fast he thought it was going to hit him.

A car driven by Marjorie Isabel Vicknair, 27, of Point Reyes Station, left Sir Francis Drake Boulevard a short distance west of Camp Taylor in San Geronimo Valley and landed in a ditch about 12:10 a.m. Her son, Raow, 4, suffered head cuts.

Mrs. Vicknair said she was driving west on Drake when a car on the wrong side of the road forced her off the highway.

Black Point Public Boat Ramp Opening

With planes flying overhead and water skiers flashing by, the new $11,000 public boat ramp at Black Point will be dedicated at 2 p.m. tomorrow by city, county and state dignitaries.

The boat ramp is under the Highway 37 bridge over Petaluma Creek.

The dedication ceremonies are sponsored by the Black Point Improvement Club. Ernest Schallinger, president of the club, will be master of ceremonies.

County Supervisor William A. Gnoss will cut the ribbon to open the ramp. Mrs. Gnoss will break a bottle of champagne to dedicate it.

Novato Mayor M. E. Silva will head the official dedication committee from the city, which will include councilmen and members of the parks and recreation advisory commission.

The Tollefson Flying Service from the Marin County Airport will have planes flying overhead during the ceremony.

The Marin Division of the Golden Gate Water Ski Club will perform tricks on water skis, including a three-man pyramid. It wall also feature Lyle Stepleton and his seven-year-son, Van, on the saucer.

The Marin County Sheriff's Marine Patrol will have four boats performing offshore.

Delegations from the state wild life conservation board, the fish and game commission and the beaches and parks commission will attend.

The boat ramp is the first public recreational facility in North Marin County. It was built by the state fish and game department and will be maintained by the county. The county has agreed to build restrooms and a parking area.

Robbery Of Motel Nets Jail

Robert Wallace Lawrence, 34, of Fairfax, who held up a night clerk at Bermuda Palms Motel at gunpoint last March, will serve a state prison term for robbery.

He was sentenced yesterday by Judge Thomas F. Keating in Marin Superior Court. First degree robbery carries a penalty of five years to life.

Lawrence admitted using a gun to rob the night clerk on March 6.

An accomplice in the holdup, Dale Rollo Frost, 27, of San Rafael, was tried and convicted of robbery. His sentencing is due Monday. A jury reached a deadlock on the third suspect, Richard Garrett Payne, 20, of San Francisco.

Lawrence is an ex-convict who has served several prior prison terms. His crime of auto thefts, burglary and forgery date back to 1944, when he was a teen-ager in Virginia. He held up the San Rafael motel less than a month after he had been released from Marin County Jail after serving six months for forgery.

A burglar from Concord, who broke into a San Rafael cocktail lounge at 813 Fourth Street on March 24, also drew a state prison term. Judge Keating sentenced Fred Dean Smothers, 29, for second degree burglary, which means one to 15 years in state prison.

Smothers has a record of burglaries and auto theft in Minneapolis. He served time in Minnesota State Prison for burglary.

Marin Sailor Set For College

Charles E. Glass, Navy airman apprentice, son of Mr. and Mrs. David E. Glass of 243 Brookside Drive., San Anselmo, has been selected to attend college under the Navy's Reserve Officer Training Corps program while serving at the Naval Air Technical Training Unit, Jacksonville, Fla.

He is scheduled to attend the Navy's preparatory school in Bainbridge, Md., this summer and upon successful completion, enter college this fall.

Before entering the Navy in June 1961, Glass was graduated from Sir Francis Drake High School.

No Marin City Services Vote

No election is to be held in the June 5 primary for new directors to the Marin City Community Services District, Juanita S. Cobb, secretary, announced today.

Only three nominations were received, one for each of the incumbents whose terms are expiring. They are Harrison N. Bailey, chairman; C. J. Williams and John A. Thomson.

The county board of supervisors will appoint the new directors.

Harmon Is Re-elected Demo Council Head

Robert Harmon of Belvedere was re-elected chairman of Marin Council of Democratic Clubs at a meeting Monday night at the county court house in San Rafael.

Serving with Harmon will be George de Tuncq, Novato, vice president, and Olive Lewis, San Rafael, secretary.

cerely hopes that you will not leave Marin County until the other communities have had a chance to offer available sites," Brown wrote Ehrlich.

Brown said the developers have promised a project which will not be "a honky tonk type of thing."

"We look to a cultural project comparable to the San Francisco Aquarium," Brown explained.

Ehrlich indicated in an interview with KTIM News that his organization was contemplating at least four sites in Marin and was pleased by the offer of help from the bureau. He also stated that he was not particularly disappointed with the Mill Valley turndown, as further surveys indicated that the Mill Valley property was too small.

Japan Death Toll: 155

TOKYO (AP) — The death toll in Japan's triple train crash Thursday rose to 155 today when salvage workers found the mangled body of a 51-year-old man beneath a shattered, overturned commuter car.

Dr. Blake To Be In Marin

The distinguished Protestant leader, Dr. Eugene Carson Blake, will be guest speaker Wednesday, 8 p.m., at the First Presbyterian Church of San Rafael.

The former president of the National Council of Churches and Stated Clerk of the United Presbyterian Church in the USA will speak at the church's mid-week Evensong service.

Dr. Blake, a trustee of the San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo, made news in 1960, when he suggested union of the Methodist, Presbyterian, Episcopal and United Church of Christ.

Dr. Blake headed a deputation of the Nation Council of Churches to Russia in 1956 and has been a delegate to the World Conference of Churches in Sweden, the second assembly of the council in Evanston, Ill., 17th General Council, World Presbyterian Alliance at Princeton and to the 16th council in Geneva and the Faith and Order Conference at Oberlin, Ohio.

He is a graduate of Princeton University, where he played three years as a varsity football guard, and of Princeton Theological Seminary. He's been a teacher in India, at Williams College and held pastorites of churches in New York and California.

He also is a trustee of Princeton University and Occidental College, and Princeton Theological Seminary and a member of the central and executive committees of the World Council of Churches, the United States Conference of the World Council and the General Board of the National Council of Churches.

Dr. Blake and his family live in Philadelphia.

Pre-Christian Era Still Exists, Says Historian

By LOUIS CASSELS
U.P. International

It currently is fashionable in some circles to say that we live in a "post-Christian era."

The phrase is intended to suggest that Christianity has become a waning influence in the modern world.

Pessimists within the church, and skeptics outside it, can point to a good deal of evidence to support that thesis.

One-third of the human race has fallen under the rule of atheistic communism. Islam and the oriental religions are resurgent in Africa and Asia. In the ancient Christian nations of Western Europe, only 10 to 15 per cent of the population attends church. Even in America, where church membership is at an all-time high, a widespread collapse of moral standards indicates that genuine Christian commitment is the exception rather than the rule.

SOBERING FACT

These are sobering facts. But they aren't the whole picture, according to Professor Kenneth Scott Latourette of Yale University.

Dr. Lataourette is widely regarded as the greatest living church historian. He is convinced that to call this a post-Christian era is to be "blind to history."

"Just the opposite is true," he says. "If mankind is viewed as a whole, never has Christ been as great a force in the human scene as he is today."

Latourette points out that "there has never been a Christian era" in the sense of a time when a majority of mankind lived in conformity to the Christian faith.

SMALL FRACTION

The Roman Empire and Medieval Europe, he says, were never more than "superficially Christian." And they represented, of course, only a small fraction of the world. Over vast areas of Asia and Africa, Christianity's foothold was infinitesimal until the present century.

Although Christians still constitute less than a third of the world's population, Dr. Latourette says, "never has the Christian faith been as widely accepted as it is today."

"Indeed, no other religion has ever had as extensive a geographic spread as has Christianity in the Twentieth Century."

Also, he says, Christianity is "more deeply planted" in Asia and Africa now than it was during the fervent missionary era of the 19th Century.

"Until the last half century, the churches among non-European peoples were mostly dominated by westerners. The anti-colonial surge of the past four decades might have been expected to have weakened these churches; but because of the inner vitality of the faith in land after land indigenous leadership has been emerging. Among some peoples, the faith continues to spread with little or no help from the churches of Europe and America."

Dr. Latourette lists three other reasons for his conviction that "Christ is having a wider effect upon mankind than ever before."

1. Communist persecution has failed to "erase" Christianity from a single country. In Russia, churches are attracting young people who have been indoctrinated with atheist propaganda since early childhood. Even in Red China, "the churches go on, and Baptisms of adult as well as children are known to be taking place."

GREAT UPSURGE

2. "New movements are appearing in the churches—proof of continuing vitality." He cites, for example, the liturgical movement in the Roman Catholic Church, and the great upsurge of activity by laymen in Protestant communions.

3. Although still divided, Christians around the world are working and praying "as never before" for the realization of Christ's prayer for unity among his disciples.

Dr. Latourette does not know when the world will enter a true "Christian era." But he is quite sure that the date lies not in the past, but sometime in the future.

"Our faith is in God," he says. "He will not allow his word to fail in the mission to which he has sent it. In His own good time and His own way, not ours, He will accomplish the purpose which He has in Christ."

SEMINARY HEAD WILL BE ON NBC PROGRAM

Dr. Theodore Gill, president of the San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo, will appear on the NBC radio program "The Art of Living," announced the broadcasting and film commission of the National Council of Churches.

Dr. Gill will be heard during July, August and September Sundays over KNBC at 7:45 a.m., and on other affiliated stations nationally.

Inverness Art Show Planned

The annual Liturgical Art Show will be held at St. Columba's Episcopal Parish in Inverness tomorrow.

The show and silver tea will begin at 2 p.m. in Frick Hall of the hillside church. The exhibit's emphasis this year will be on religious art of the Orient and Near East. Mrs. Robert L. Bruckman, chairman, has gotten vestments and icons of the Greek Orthodox Church and religious objects of other Christian denominations.

Also included will be the works of Marin artists and other Bay Area residents. Dr. Francis Read, vicar, will read Evensong at 4:30 p.m. the day of the show. Money gifts at the silver tea will support the work of the St. Mary's Altar Guild, the program's sponsor.

Baptist Leader Welcomes Peace Conference

Dr. Harold K. Graves president of the Golden Gate Baptist Seminary in Strawberry asserts that those ". . . who serve the Prince of Peace should be most concerned for the cause of peace."

"This is what the Christian educator said regarding the use of the Baptist seminary as the site of the Inter-Faith Conference to discuss a "Religious Concern for Peace" next Saturday.

". . . Jesus himself said 'Blessed are the peacemakers.'

As a Christian institution the Golden Gate Baptist Seminary is very happy to host (the conference) on peace," said president Graves.

Guest speaker at the luncheon of the day-long conference will be Rev. Rodney Shaw, national director of the Methodist "Race for Peace" program. He will attend the Marin conference from Washington D.C.

A panel of representatives of Protestant, Jewish and Catholic faiths will be held during the conference. Dr. John R. Bodo, Professor of Practical Theology at the San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo will be the moderator.

Members of the panel will include Rev. Russell Oaks, minister of the Mill Valley Methodist Church; Steven Thiermann, executive secretary of the Friends Service Committee of Northern California; Albert Krebs Jr., a high school teacher, and a member of PAX-Bay Area, a Catholic peace organization; and Lawrence Goldberg, San Francisco attorney, who is vice president of Congregation Rodef Sholem, San Rafael.

Reservations may be made at church or temple offices throughout Marin County or directly with Dr. C. Arthur Insko, Professor of Christian Ethics, Golden Gate Baptist Seminary, Strawberry Point. Registration and luncheon fee is $2.25.

The Reverend Jack Biersdorf, minister of the Fairfax Community Church, and chairman of the conference has assigned the members of the steering committee to the following responsibilities. Clergy committee, Rev. Wesley C. Baker, the minister of the First Presbyterian Church of San Rafael; Rev. Bliss Bellinger, Faith Lutheran Church; Reverend H. Gordon Birky, of the Methodist Church area office; Rev. D. Murray Hammond, the minister of the Episcopal Church of Our Savior; Rev. Gilbert Hall, Loma Verde Community Baptist Church; Rabbi Morton Hoffman, Congregation Rodef Sholem.

Layman committee, H. Dieter Schugt, William Brannan, Dr. Joseph P. Gutstadt, Mrs. Richard S. Harding, William Joost, Dr. James Rideout. Arrangements, Miss Jutta Reich of the Mill Valley Community Church and Rev. Paul H. Buchholz of the First Presbyterian Church of San Anselmo; publicity, Mrs. E. F. Pierce and Lawrence Wade.

Divine Law Will Be Sermon Topic

How obedience to divine law brings human redemption will be explained tomorrow at Christian Science Church services in Marin.

In the Scriptural passages to be read is the story of Jonah. The lesson-sermon is entitled "Everlasting Punishment."

This selection will be read from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Truth, Life and Love are the only legitimate and eternal demands on man, and they are spiritual lawgivers, enforcing obedience through divine statutes."

The Golden Text is from Psalm 130: "Let Israel hope in the Lord: for with the Lord there is mercy, and with Him is plenteous redemption."

Higher Budget

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — At the annual Southern Baptist convention in San Francisco this June, an increase of $19,792,500 in the denomination's general program budget will be proposed, an executive committee decided.

St. Colombo's Vicar Will Take A Vacation

Dr. and Mrs. Francis Read, vicar of St. Colombo's Episcopal Church in Inverness will leave on a vacation for Norfolk, Va., Monday.

The couple will return May 23. During the vicar's absence Canon Trevor Hoy will officiate at St. Colombo's and Rev. Eric Jackson at St. Aiden's Episcopal Mission in Bolinas. Wednesday services May 9, 16 and 23 are cancelled. All other services will be on regular schedule, announced the vicar.

Missionary Meetings Planned At Calvary

Rev. and Mrs. John Lacy, missionary appointees to Liberia, Africa, will conduct tomorrow's 11 a.m., 6 and 7 p.m. services at the Calvary Baptist Church in Larkspur, announced Rev. Michael Barkowska, pastor.

The Lacys, under the Baptist Mid-Missions organization, are graduates of the Western Baptist Bible College in El Cerrito.

Tiburon Baptists Will Celebrate Family Week

The Tiburon Boulevard Baptist Church will mark Christian Home Week beginning tomorrow, announced Rev. Ernest J. Wood Jr., pastor.

Special family sermons will be presented at the 11 a.m. and at the 6 p.m. worship by Rev. Wood tomorrow. The theme for 7:30 p.m. services Wednesday will be "Appreciation of Christian Homes."

The church will join the Mental Health Assn. of Marin Friday in a public meeting on "The Family Circle in a World of Squares." The week will be climaxed with a special 11 a.m. service Mother's Day, May 13. That day at 6 p.m. services Dr. C. Arthur Insko, professor of Christian Ethics at the Golden Gate Baptist Seminary will discuss the highlights of an Interfaith Conference to be held at the seminary May 12.

World Report To Be Given

Rev. and Mrs. Joseph L. Gerhart of Santa Cruz will be guest speakers at the Southern Marin Assembly of God tomorrow, 7 p.m.

Having recently returned from a missionary tour of the world, the Gerharts will relate experiences and eye-witness reports of several of the 20 countries which they visited in the interest of world missions. They will also present colored slides showing scenes from Japan, Manila, Hong Kong, Singapore, Malaya, Thailand and India.

Rev. Gerhart is the District Superintendent of the Northern California and Nevada Assemblies of God churches. In addition to his civilian life, he spent a number of years as a chaplain with the U.S. Army during World War II, serving in the combat areas of the South Pacific. He is presently serving with the Active Reserves in Oakland.

Films On Lutheran Liturgy Tomorrow

An explanation of the liturgical traditions of the Lutheran Church will be presented tomorrow in the education building of Trinity Lutheran Church, 333 Woodland Avenue, San Rafael.

The 8 p.m. program will include a recorded narrative and musical service accompanied by a film-strip which symbolically presents the liturgy. It is entitled "The Lutheran Liturgy in Slow Motion." A discussion period will follow the film.

The presentation will be preceded by a Vesper service in the church at 7:30 p.m.

The program will be presented by the minister of the church, Rev. Fred C. Braunschweiger.

Women's Communion

Members of the St. Sebastian's Women's Club will receive their regular monthly Holy Communion at the parish tomorrow at 8:30 a.m. Mass, announced Mrs. D. J. McGonigle, spiritual chairman.

Unitarian Church Will Have Guest Speaker

Rev. Karel F. Boterman, minister of the Flint, Mich., Unitarian-Universalist Church, will be the guest speaker at the 11 a.m. service tomorrow of the Unitarian-Universalist Church of Marin at the Tamalpais Center Women's Club in Kentfield.

His sermon will be on "The Quest for Sanity," announced Hazel Stevenson, church secretary.

St. Paul's Parish Picnic Is May 13

St. Paul's Episcopal Church, San Rafael, will hold a parish picnic at the Bishop's Ranch, Healdsburg, following the 9 a.m. service May 13.

The Bishop's Ranch is owned and operated by the Diocese of California and is used primarily as a conference center.

The event has been planned to coincide with the Festival of the Christian Home celebrated the same day.

Mill Valley Sets Seminars

The Methodist Church of Mill Valley will hold a series of Family Life seminars beginning tomorrow.

The series will be held Sundays at 7 p.m. through May 27. Guest speakers will include Dr. Jay Reeve, University of Pacific Chairman of Educational and Counseling Psychology; Dr. William Pemberton, Mill Valley psychologist; Drew Hall, Marin County probation officer.

Tomorrow's session will be a socia-drama "Frictions in the Home." It will be followed by a discussion on the topics of factors in family stability, growing freedoms and diminishing restraints, and communications in the family.

Gilbert To Take New Post In June

Phil Gilbert, Christian Education director at the First Presbyterian Church of San Anselmo for the past three years, will join the ministerial staff of the Menlo Park Presbyterian Church in June, announced San Anselmo's committee of sessions this week.

Gilbert will graduate from the San Francisco Theological Seminary next month. Before entering the ministry, Gilbert was a chemist for a national corporation. He will be replaced at the Marin church by Miss Barbara Duvall.

The session also announced that Charles Tyler will replace senior seminary student Harry Maghakian as advisor to high school youth of the church and Eric Iversen will also work with the youth during the summer.

Tiburon Mariners To Hear Architects

A dinner meeting for members of the Mariners Club of Westminster Presbyterian Church on Tiburon Boulevard will be held Tuesday evening at 6:30 o'clock in the church, the group's skippers, Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Libby of Strawberry announced this week.

Special guests for the evening meeting will be San Rafael landscape architects Katy and Paul Steinmetz. Their talk, to be illustrated with color slides, will combine two topics of interest to the group, "The Outdoor-Living Garden," and "Color All Year in the Garden."

Non-members who are interested in attending the Mariners Club meeting are asked to call the dinner chairman, Mrs. George White.

Program chairman for the club is Mrs. T. D. Nordin.

Alice Casassa To Wed In June

Planning a wedding on June 16 are Alice Casassa of San Anselmo and Edward Lindemann of Hollywood.

The bride-elect, daughter of Jack Casassa of San Anselmo was graduated from Sir Francis Drake High School and College of Marin where she was a member of Delta Rho Tau. James Growney of Honolulu is her brother. She is employed in San Francisco as a legal secretary.

The future bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Lindemann of Westminster, was graduated from Long Beach State College. He is employed in Long Beach and is a past president of the Newport Beach Optimists and the 20-30 Club. Sally Doyle of Los Angeles is his sister.

MARIN'S SOCIAL WHIRL

Parties Prior To Candlelight Ball, Lawyers Wives' Dinner

By FLORENCE DONNELLY

No matter which way you turn there'll be a party tonight as there are two big social events, the Candlelight Ball of Social Service Auxiliary at the Meadow Club, always one of the spectaculars of the year, and the costume dinner dance of the Lawyers Wives of Marin at Peacock Gap Country Club with dozens of cocktail parties in private homes. This in spite of the fact that there will be a pre-ball party at the Meadow Club and another at Peacock Gap.

Before the Candlelight Ball groups will gather at the homes of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Phelps, the Charles Gombias and Donald Morrells, Mrs. Morrell, co-chairman of decorations for the ball, and her husband are bringing with them Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Davis of San Mateo and Mrs. Mary Kay Warren and Charles Haener of Napa.

Attending the ball together will be Dr. and Mrs. Howard Haswell, the Mert Hipsleys and Robert Walkers, who will be guests tomorrow of Mr. and Mrs. Leavitt Olds on their cruiser, the Jolly Roger, for the opening of the yachting season and the boat parade which starts at noon from under the Golden Gate Bridge. With them, too, will be the Henry Skinners, who have just returned from a week at the World Fair in Seattle.

THE HAROLD TRUETTS of San Anselmo are entertaining the Robert M. Wards, who recently moved into a Fairhills home. Mrs. Truett's father, Oscar Mellin, who has a large cattle ranch in Gilroy, is considering moving to Marin because of his interest in boating. Guests of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Helms of San Anselmo (she is ball chairman) will be Mr. and Mrs. Walter Castro Jr. The Bob Helbigs will have as their guests, Kenneth Glaser and his fiancee, Eulalie Fuller. The Helbigs are eagerly awaiting the visit of Bob's twin, Raymond Helbig of Honolulu, and his family.

FORMER MARINITES, the Carl Hillmans of San Francisco, will be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Grey. Jackie Grey is decorations chairman.

BEFORE THE LAWYERS Wives' dinner dance, which has been titled Gaway Gaities, Mr. and Mrs. Muirison Taylor will give a cocktail party for Messrs. and Mesdames James Dorais, William Wion, Robert Mason, Jack Mengel, Brad Nicholson, George Werheim, Lester Spillane, John Buresh and Robert McIntosh. Dr. and Mrs. Donald Black of San Rafael will be hosts to Dr. and Mrs. Thomas McCormick, Messrs. and Mesdames Joseph Bare Jr., James Schriver and Ed Curries.

IN MILL VALLEY, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Boessenecker are entertaining at their home Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Malovos, who are driving from Los Gatos, Messrs. and Mesdames Peter Behr, Alexander Imlay and Mr. Marvin Colangelo.

AT THEIR HOME in San Rafael Mr. and Mrs. Edward Bronson Jr. will entertain Judge and Mrs. Richard Sims, Messrs. and Mesdames Lawrason Driscoll, Robert Frederick, James Martin, Richard Hawkinson, George Hartwick, Bernard Kearns, Frank Farella, Edward Morris, John Martel and Ernest Lageson.

MR. AND MRS. WILLIAM Donohoe of San Rafael will entertain at their home Dr. and Mrs. Ted Schuster, Mr. and Mrs. J. Conrad Abbett, who are flying in from San Luis Obispo.

At the cocktail party being given by Mr. and Mrs. Francis Walsh of Kent Woodlands, will be Dr. and Mrs. Herbert Lee, Dr. and Mrs. I. N. Tucker, Messrs. and Mesdames Victor P. Reed, Robert O'Brien, John F. Kennedy, T. E. Delger and Lloyd Postel.

MR. AND MRS. ROBERT Huber of Mill Valley will pass potables and canapes to Judge and Mrs. Thoms Kongsgaard, who live in Napa, and Dr. and Mrs. Sean Moloney, Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Stidham of San Rafael will entertain Dr. and Mrs. William Turman, Dr. and Mrs. Barton Briggs, Dr. Bert Halter, Messrs. and Mesdames Thomas Ryan, George Gazulis and Donald Duncan.

ALSO IN SAN RAFAEL will be the cocktail party given by Mr. and Mrs. Irving Hodes who will entertain Messrs. and Mesdames Thomas Guerin, Robert McCullogh, Donald Rodriguez, Edward Shelton and De Witt MacDonald.

JUDGE AND MRS. JOSEPH Wilson are entertaining at a cocktail party at Peacock Gap Dr. and Mrs. John Elliott, Messrs. and Mesdames Harrison Lavender, Peter Sarocka, Samuel Crowell, William Cassidy Jr., William R. Davis, Merton A. Jacobs, Harvey Hoffman and John Gaylord.

ALICE CHURCHILL, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Churchill of Sausalito, has set June 17 as the date of her marriage to Hugh White of Mill Valley.

'62 The Year Of 'Baby Bull'

Cepeda On Batting Spree; Giants Increase N.L. Lead

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Chinese calendar nothwithstanding, this may be the Year of the Baby Bull.

The Chinese calendar, as many residents of San Francisco know, lists this as the Year of the Tiger. But Orlando Cepeda, the Baby Bull of San Francisco's Giants, may claim it for his own.

To the surprise of practically no one, but to the considerable consternation of nine National League teams, the Baby Bull is on a rampage.

He drove in five runs on a homer, double and single yesterday as the Giants blasted Chicago 11-6 for their 10th straight triumph. It also marked the 24th consecutive time the free-wheeling Giants had knocked out the opposition's starting pitcher.

They got help from Cincinnati's Jim O'Toole, who threw a five-hitter and held off St. Louis 3-2 in a night game. It stretched the Giants' lead to 2½ games over the Cards.

In the others, all night games, Pittsburgh rushed in a run in the bottom of the ninth to clip the Los Angeles Dodgers, 5-4, Philadelphia quelled a budding New York rally in the ninth and beat the Mets 6-5, and Houston took Milwaukee 7-4.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

In the American League, Cleveland edged Kansas City 6-5, Los Angeles Angels got by Baltimore 5-4, Boston used a 12-run inning to subdue the Chicago White Sox 13-6, and Minnesota defeated Detroit 4-2. The New York Yankees and Washington were idle.

Cepeda, the Giants' Puerto Rican-born first baseman, had the best season of his career last year when he led the league in home runs with 46 and runs batted in with 142.

He's now hitting .340, is tied for the league lead with eight homers, and leads the league in runs batted in with 28.

O'Toole (2-3), 25, a lefty, allowed an infield hit to the lead-off man, Curt Flood, then retired 16 men in a row before he weakened and the Cards began threatening. Solo homers by Frank Robinson, Leo Cardenas and Vada Pinson gave him just enough working room. Larry Jackson (3-2) was the loser.

Bob Skinner's bases-loaded pinch-hit single drove in the winning run as the Pirates snapped a four-game losing string against the Dodgers. The Pirates held a 4-0 lead before the Dodgers came back with three in the eighth and tied it in the ninth. Elroy Face (1-0) benefitted from Skinner's single while Joe Moeller (1-3) took the loss.

THOMAS HOMER

Frank Thomas got his eighth homer, a three-run blast, for the Mets, but it wasn't enough as the Phillies won their fourth straight. Relief man Dallas Green (1-0), who worked out of a bases-loaded, none-out situation in the ninth, won it while Ken MacKenzie (0-1) was the loser.

Houston spotted Milwaukee a 4-0 first-inning lead, then came back to win it behind the good relief work of Bob Bruce (1-0) and Dick Farrell. Jim Pendleton and Hal Smith had homers for the Colts, but two unearned runs in the seventh clinched it.

SAN RAFAEL TOP TRACK QUALIFIER

San Rafael Bulldogs look today like the team to beat next Friday for the Marin County Athletic League track and field crown after yesterday qualifying 26 athletes in the MCAL trials.

Next to coach Bill O'Bayley's leading crew were coach John Panagakis's Novato Hornets, now in a tie for first place in the dual race with San Rafael. The Hornets grabbed 19 berths for the finals, and Tamalpais captured 17.

The Bulldogs cracked two loop records and tied another yesterday. Mike Shafer bettered his previous MCAL record by 1.3 seconds, running the 440 in 50.6 yesterday. Denis Nickle tossed the shot 50 feet, 1 inch for a new county mark and Eugene Kern tied the MCAL with an 11-foot effort in the pole vault.

880 RECORD

In the half-mile run, Mike French of Novato did some tall running. During the first heat he watched Randy Keller of Redwood break the string in a new county record of 2 minutes, 3.3 seconds. But then Keller watched French blast the recently set mark with a hot time of 2 minutes, 2.3 seconds in the second heat.

Ellis Williams of Tamalpais was the only triple winner yesterday as he stacked up firsts in the 100-yard dash, the 220 and the broad jump.

JOFRE RETAINS TITLE—CONTROVERSY

Apostoli Defends TKO Verdict

By DICK BARNES

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Brabilian Eder Jofre still holds the world bantamweight boxing championship, but Herman Marquez, a knockout loser, claims Benny Paret was the third boxer in the ring.

Referee Fred Apostoli of Fairfax stopped their scheduled 15-round title bout in the 10th last night at the Cow Palace after the long-jawed champion dropped Marquez for the second time in the round.

The 118-pound Stockton longshoreman claimed he wasn't hurt—he was just resting after the second knockdown. He said Apostoli stopped the fight too soon because the spectre of Paret's death after his welterweight title fight March 24 was too fresh in the official's mind.

Apostoli insisted Marquez was in trouble. "I think he was getting hit solidly and often," the former middleweight champion said. "He was almost helpless and he was staggering when he did get up."

Apostoli denied that Paret's death influenced him.

Marquez, a clever boxer not noted for a rugged punch, bored in on Jofre for nine rounds, building up a 7-0 and 5-1 edge on the cards of judges Fred Botaro and Vern Bybee.

Apostoli had the champ ahead after nine rounds 5-3 under California scoring, where the winner of a round gets 1 to 5 points and the loser none.

"This was for the world championship," protested Marquez' co-manager, Al Avila. "Herman should have been given every chance."

Jofre's camp, pleased with his 12th straight knockout, nevertheless thought the 117¾ pound vegetarian didn't have a good night. "He was too slow," said manager Abraham Katzenelson.

The net gate of $27,420 from 6,177 fans was little more than half of what the promoters expected.

Vets Lead At Vegas

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—The older guard of golf was still in the driver's seat — three of them, in fact—as the $58,000 Tournament of Champions rocked into the third round today.

Leading the procession were Masters champion Arnold Palmer, Doug Ford and Cary Middlecoff, deadlocked at 139 for 36 holes.

Just as the first round ended in a four-way tie for first and four more just one shot behind, only one stroke separated the top three and the four players tied at 140.

They were Billy Casper Jr., Earl Stewart Jr., Australia's Bruce Crampton and Jack Fleck.

Doug Sanders and Joe Campbell were knotted at 141 and U.S. Open Champion Gene Littler, a winner here three times in the 10 years of the tournament, was alone at 143, one stroke back of fellow Californian Phil Rodgers.

Casper shot the finest round of the two rounds yesterday, a 67, five under the par 36-36—72 Desert Inn Country Club course.

Sam Snead's downfall came on the par four ninth. It was rough-rough, trap-trap, finally the green and a fat three-over par seven for the hole.

Snead, the defending champion, wound up with 40-35.

Giusti, Scoville Produce Big Hits For Giants

Bob Scoville and catcher Tony Giusti each drove in three runs, the latter with a homer, to lead the front running Redwood Giants to a 10-2 triumph over Novato yesterday at Albert Field, San Rafael. The losers executed the league's first triple play when third sacker Tom Miller snared a liner, tagged third and relayed to second for the third out.

Burch Pitches, Bats Wildcats To 6-5 Margin

Frank Burch pitched a three-hitter and collected two hits himself to lead the second place Mairn Catholic Wildcats to a 6-5 squeaker win over Tam yesterday in the Marin League baseball race. Losing pitcher Dave Perlis cracked a three-run homer in the bottom of the seventh inning in a futile rally.

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Heavyweights Eddie Machen and Roger Rischer will meet in a 10-round bout at the Cow Palace May 28, according to promoter Lou Thomas.

Marin Divers To Probe Ship Wrecks

Al Giddings Jr. of San Anselmo will lead several members of the Marin Skin Diving Club and others in a skin diving expedition of submerged vessels off Lower California.

Giddings, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Miller of Mill Valley, Marian Crayne of San Rafael, and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Vasterling of Petaluma will leave for Mexico tomorrow. The group will visit islands in a chartered boat of Dick Addcock an American resident of La Paz, Mex.

Off Cap San Lucas, about 130 miles south of La Paz, the divers will take motion pictures of several wrecked ships including a 13,000-ton freighter. The films are sponsored by the Bamboo Reef Skin Diving Shop of San Rafael, co-owned by Giddings and LeRoy French.

Plumbers Practice, May Join League

Manager Bob Johnston of the San Anselmo Ongaro Plumbers today reminded prospective players of the first tryouts tomorrow for the semi-pro baseball club.

Workouts begin at 10 a.m. at San Anselmo's Memorial Park and players should bring their own gloves and spikes, said Johnston.

Johnston said plans are being discussed for the possibility of forming a Marin County or North Bay league this season and that his team would enter whichever is organized.

TORK VAULTS 16-1/4, BUT ON ILLEGAL PIT

SUNNYVALE (AP) — Pole vaulting star Dave Tork leaped 16 feet ¼ inches last night but he wasn't shooting to break his own world record.

The Marine lieutenant from Camp Pendleton jumped a record 16 feet, 2 inches last week. Last night a new mark would not have been accepted. Tork, competing in a San Jose State College track meet, jumped in a pit without a regulation pole placement box and a mound that rises in the runway approach.

STILL SOME HOPE

S.F. Loses Warriors For The Time Being

NEW YORK (UPI)—For the time being, at least, the National Basketball Assn. is going to retain its present alignment, which leaves San Francisco and Baltimore still on the outside looking in.

That action, which amounts to no action, was all the league's stalemated board of directors could produce after more than 17 hours of deliberation and debate on a proposal to sell and transfer the Philadelphia Warriors to San Francisco.

"The practical difficulties of such a move at this time," was the reason given for the failure of the sale to go through when the directors broke up their two-day meeting behind closed doors yesterday.

The phrase "at this time," however, indicated to some that the action still may be completed. Another meeting is scheduled later this month, date yet to be set. What may come up wasn't specified. The directors and league president Maurice Podoloff weren't talking.

Philadelphia owner Eddie Gottlieb had asked the league for permission to sell the Warriors — including super star Wilt Chamberlain, the league's greatest drawing card—to a group which wanted to move the franchise to San Francisco. The sale price was reported to be $850,000.

The difficulty apparently centered around the insistence of directors representing Boston, New York and Syracuse that the NBA retain a representative team in Philadelphia.

Gottlieb had hoped to buy one of the present franchises—Chicago, Detroit and Syracuse were mentioned—and move it to Philadelphia to replace the Warriors. This fell through.

Sohner Softballers Sweep Double Header

Sohner Tree Service, victorious in a doubleheader in Santa Rosa last night, will host Alburt's Clothing of Alameda in another softball twin-bill at San Anselmo's Memorial Park tomorrow. The first game is slated to start at 2 p.m.

In last night's wins over Valley Furniture of Santa Rosa, Sohner's jumped off to early leads in both games and coasted to easy 7-3 and 8-5 victories behind the steady pitching of Jay Leatherwood and Lou Perazzo.

John Brookman, Ron Jerome, and Bob Alvarado paced the Sohner hitting attack.

Volunteers Needed At Rod-Gun Pier

Members of the Marin Rod and Gun Club are asked to volunteer their services tomorrow in a work-day party at the club's pier, Point San Quentin.

Workers are asked to report to work at 8 a.m. and bring their own saws and hammers, said Chairman Leo Ciucci.

FIGHTS LAST NIGHT

SAN FRANCISCO — Eder Jofre, 117¾, Sao Paulo, Brazil, knocked out Herman Marquez, 118, Stockton, Calif., 10. Jofre retained world bantamweight title. Hank Casey, 158½, San Francisco, outpointed Fernando Barreto, 159½, Brazil, 10.

LOUISVILLE, Ky. — James Ellis, 159½, Louisville, outpointed Holly Mims, 157¾, Washington, 10.

Dome of the new Marin County courthouse, by FRANK LLOYD WRIGHT

Come on up and see the future ★ A report on the growth of the county

Designed by Frank Lloyd Wright, the new Marin County courthouse is more than a building, it's an event. As an architectural landmark it promises to become an American Mecca for all who admire bold, imaginative work on a master scale. Thrusting into the future, it is indeed a new symbol of Marin. For the county, like its courthouse, is adding exciting new dimensions as it enters a new era of expansion. Here's a "view from the top" that gives you some idea of Marin's growth—and future.

Marin is becoming a green-leaved city of towns and suburban areas. Population is one of our biggest "industries," up 14,489 or 9.9% since the 1960 Census, for a total of 161,289 people. This makes Marin the third fastest-growing of the 9 Bay Area counties . . . on its way to metropolitan status.

With new people come new businesses. And Marin, gaining 28.0% in just 5 years, out-did all other Bay Area counties except Santa Clara, adding 464 new firms. Adding jobs, too, and a broader base of industry.

Income? It's our "leading product" in Marin. Average taxable return, at $9,781, is highest of any county in California—which helps explain our swimming pools, fine homes, our average of 1.35 cars per family . . . our $10,000,000 worth of boats.

Real estate is the real thing in this county. Look at the figures: real estate loans for 1961, up 33.5% over 1960—new homes, new tracts, waterside and hillside developments everywhere, some with a boat in the backyard, some with golf in the front. What a year! Multiple-listing sales, at $39,697,716, were 22.1% ahead of 1960. And despite the recessive first quarter, building permits climbed 14.7% in dollar value ahead of the prior year.

Telephones added their voice to progress, too . . . with 5,373 new ones installed in 1961, for a total of 76,078.

Around you is the stir and yeast of change. More Marin breadwinners now work in Marin County than in San Francisco—part of the new pattern. New restaurants add flavor to living. New money keeps coming in from all over the U.S., helping develop apartments, cooperatives, new tracts, new industry, marinas and golf courses. It's even expected we'll have two new industrial parks this spring.

The future then, is being created today. You can see it and feel it. You live in a community that's moving ideas into action . . . turning new energies, new business, new life, into the unlimited dimension of growth.

Growth of a newspaper, too, grows from serving the whole community

The Independent-Journal has become the first line of communication for the entire county—bought and read by 2 out of 3 households in Marin. We've added new features, greater coverage of world and local events, new ideas; taken the lead, nationally, in new printing advances. Result: readers have given us readership. This alone explains our own phenomenal growth . . . explains why 70,000 people read the I-J every evening . . . why advertising is so responsive . . . and why the most quoted phrase in Marin County is this: "I see by tonight's I-J . . ."

We Should Try To Recover Unexpended Transit Taxes

The Board of Supervisors, by resolution, has officially and reluctantly withdrawn Marin County from the Bay Area Rapid Transit District, leaving that district no longer an area organization.

This undoubtedly was the proper and unavoidable step at this juncture of rapid transit planning. Proposed transit lines couldn't reach us over the Golden Gate Bridge and the district desires to put a bond issue on the November ballot for the three remaining counties of the district.

It is unrealistic and unfair for our board of supervisors, however, to seek return of taxes we have paid into the district for its operations to this point. Certainly we have benefitted in planning and consideration of our problems. That these plans could not be carried out is certainly no fault of the transit district.

And if the supervisors think they haven't purchased plans before and never brought the project to fruitation, they had better go down in the basement and look at the stack of detailed plans and expensive plans about remodeling the county courthouse.

Expenditures subsequent to our withdrawal, however, are a different matter. By no stretch of the imagination should Marin residents be required to pay for the planning of a three county transit system which excludes Marin.

Therefore it seems only fair to us that unexpended funds in the transit district's budget as of the date of our withdrawal, should be returned to us on a prorata basis.

It seems only fair that the counties getting the benefit of continuing studies, services of the district officers and all the other expenses of operation, should bear the total cost.

Therefore we hope the county counsel comes up with a realistic suggestion for getting back the unexpended monies and that he will not attempt a fruitless and selfish attempt to get all the taxes refunded.

Bouquets And Brickbats

BOUQUETS to the Rafael Theater for scheduling something really different next Wednesday—two operas, "Aida" and "Madame Butterfly." There will be just two shows, matinee and evening, so better plan now.

BRICKBATS to public officials who won't compromise when safety of children is involved thus blocking efforts to provide for their safety.

A BOUQUET to the Sausalito City Council for establishing a new park for children.

A BOUQUET for Barbara Bruff of Novato, made a member of Phi Beta Kappa honorary scholarship society at University of California.

BOUQUETS to three young Marinites, Willard C. Guerrero, 18, of Novato, a freshman at University of San Francisco; Ivy D. Cook Jr., 17, of Hamilton Air Force Base, a senior at San Rafael High, and Thomas R. Yarborough, 18, of Fort Baker, a senior at Tamalpais High, on their appointment to West Point.

MARIN LOOKS AT POLITICS

Marin YRs See Conservative Control Of State Organization

By CHAPIN A. DAY

'CHIP' DAY

There is no doubt in the minds of Marin Young Republicans that the "conservative" faction of the YRs is is now in firm control of its operations. Last week's board meeting in Sacramento proved it, they say. The "compromise" over the YR's College Federations' squabble in Los Angeles early last month, was used as an example.

The federation is headed by the so-called "liberals," who refused to seat certain delegations, including the new group from College of Marin headed by Bob Stockwell.

Last week in Sacramento a strong resolution was introduced by Orange County YRs, one so strong it would have brought "charges" against "those responsible."

The YR president, Harry Keaton, a "liberal," didn't have the votes to kill the resolution and worked out a "trial board" which will investigate and report to the next YR board meeting.

The Marin YRs reported about twice as many Shell buttons as Nixon buttons visible at the convention. But the reported "boos" and "unfortunate, derisive laughter and groans" when Richard M. Nixon spoke was "blown up in the press." It actually was done by "a very small per cent" of the crowd.

The YR resolution, they can't endorse legally, officially commended both Shell and Nixon for "offering their services."

They had many other resolutions, too, some serious, some casual. Here are a few:

That the Brown administration "repudiate" California Democratic Council policies "dangerous to national security."

That President Kennedy, having "vehemently denounced the steel industry for raising prices," call upon his family "to rescind" its "inflationary price increase" of rents to tenants of the Merchandise Mart in Chicago.

That the YRs "endorse and give their full support" to Don Clausen for the First District congressional seat.

That the President "publicly repudiate that either he or his aides have chastised or punished truth-seeking reporters."

That the first week in April be declared "National Save Us From The New Frontier Week" during which time "all New Frontiersmen would be held incommunicado in either Hyannis Port or Palm Beach."

That the President and the Secretary of State "publicly clarify" their position on the "foreign policy covered in 'The Liberal Paper.'"

Somehow it sounds like an election year.

Why Not Wolfe Grade Roulette?

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

I have given some thought to the problem of the Wolfe Grade overcrossing, and I would like to submit the following proposal for consideration. Actually, with the right amount of publicity, appointing of committees, soliciting insurance companies, it could work out very well.

My idea would be to have a program which we could call "Wolfe Grade Roulette." It would involve the parents of all of the children who have to use this crossing, buying term insurance on their individual children — possibly a group plan could be obtained—the object being what when the first child is killed, the proceeds from his insurance could be used to build the overpass.

As an added incentive to have the various families join in, it could be proposed that the overpass could be named for whichever child paid for it—that is—by the proceeds of his insurance.

It is possible that the insurance policy or policies could be scaled down so that perhaps for a broken arm or a smashed face, that a proportionate share of the money could be raised in which case, they would have to have three or four names on the overpass. Of course, the added expense of a bronze placque with the names could be computed into the cost so it really would not matter . . .

Why not consider "Wolfe Grade Roulette" as a solution —it will save money for important things.

Discrimination In Fresno Too

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

Thank you for printing Harold Gregg's letter in Tuesday's (May 1) Independent-Journal. My husband and I would like to stand up and be counted with Mr. Gregg on the subject of discrimination in housing.

Last summer we had an opportunity to observe this discrimination in action, in this neighborhood. We were disgusted to learn that heavy pressure had been brought to stop the sale of property to a Negro family, and sorry to learn that the pressure was successful.

As my background is very similar to Mr. Gregg's, except that the MacDonalds didn't change their name (usually being slaughtered first), I can support his account of conditions in Petaluma by comparing those in Fresno when I was growing up.

It was a matter of some what wry amusement last summer to reflect that the people most vociferous against having Negro neighbors would not themselves have been welcome in the 100 per cent white American middle-class neighborhood in which I grew up. No amount of money would have made anyone of southern European descent a welcome neighbor, and Irish blood was only welcome after three or four generations in the United States, and then it was not to be boasted of.

This was of course just as silly as it was wrong, and I do hope that the stupid prejudice against people of different color and religion will disappear as completely as has the prejudice against people of Irish or Italian descent . . .

When our attitude about having a Negro purchase property in Forest Knolls was made known last summer we were asked many times whether we would like to have Negro neighbors; we told the simple truth when we said that we would not care an iota. Naturally we always hope we will have congenial and "nice" neighbors, but this is not a matter of race or national background, nor does the law protect us in any way against our having the sort of neighbors we would not find congenial, nor should it. We are entitled to exactly the amount of protection in our peaceful enjoyment of our home as our neighbors are, and no more.

We were disappointed that the supervisors did not make discrimination (which of course does exist, all over the county) illegal; we hope that at least this small first step toward decent and equal treatment of all people may be taken soon . . .

Love Therapy In The Schools?

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

In Dr. Barbour's May 1 column he expresses the opinion that "If 'Love Therapy' becomes popular it'll reduce schools to a farce. Can you imagine a gang of teen-age boys trying to entice hugs and kisses from pretty teachers?"

Yes, I can. Wouldn't it be wonderful if students could say:

"Teacher, if I get all C's instead of F's this semester, will I be rewarded with a kiss?" or,

"Teacher, if we aren't arrested for drunkenness, or speeding, if we stay out of trouble for a whole semester, if we don't beat up the X gang, if we stop disturbing the class, teacher, can we have some love, some affection, some kindness, some understanding?"

I want to thank the I-J for its extensive coverage of educational activities throughout the county. In one of the adjoining counties it is close to impossible to find out what is happening in the schools.

Courthouse Talk Hints New Squeeze On County Administrator

What's this we hear about another squeeze being planned against County Administrator Alan Bruce?

As you recall, he's the one who was ousted from his quarters and nearly from his job by the former board of supervisors. They pushed him into a third floor cubby hole, which became known as Cell 300.

But the even-tempered Bruce went through it all with a smile. His former office was restored, and he's due for a modern office next to the supervisors' offices in the new civic center.

BUT HERE'S the new hitch. Rumor is that some high county officials are thinking of installing a couple of secretaries from the county clerk's office in the civic center office earmarked for the administrator.

Does this mean Administrator Bruce will once again have to turn "vagabond," looking for another cubby hole to park his desk and files?

You may be hearing more about this next week.

THE COUNTY is growing. More subdivisions going up all the time, and new commercial ventures.

Wonder when they're going to begin subdividing the 600-acre Sanchez Ranch in North Marin? Engineers are hard at work with slide rules trying to slice up the ranch into suitable homesites.

BILL PAUL of San Anselmo really made a name for himself in the national AAU judo tournament in Chicago the other day. He got into the semi-finals and came out about sixth in the heavyweight class, losing only to two men who ended up first and second in the nation.

He's 22, slightly under 6 feet, but a solid 210 pounds.

WHEN IT COMES to campaign gimmicks, Coroner Frank Keaton doesn't miss a bet. He's flooded the county with forget-me-not flower seeds in beautiful packages. On the face of the package are these bold leters: "Forget-Me-Not on Election Day, June 5."

ONCE IN A WHILE, the county does a beautiful job of road "maintenance." You recall old Balboa Avenue between Point Reyes and Inverness, scarcely touched since World War II. It's suddenly blossomed out into a paved and widened highway, leading into the new Bonelli development next to Drake Beach Estates.

You try to congratulate the county street crews on the beautiful widening job, and they shrug modestly: "Shucks, it's just routine maintenance."

Helicopters Provide Surprise Feature For Vietnamese Rangers

CAN THO, South Viet Nam —At this season, when peasants burn the rice stubble to restore their fields, the bright air is acrid with smoke, even at 6,000 feet. The competing noises of the big helicopter's rotors and engine are deafening, deadening, downright painful.

The sense of being trapped in an aerial cement mixer is just beginning to be a bit oppressive when suddenly the little delta town of Rach Gia comes into sight, lying on a river among palm gardens. Swiftly the helicopter descends, 12 wiry Vietnamese Rangers clamber aboard.

Soon the air loses its sharp smokey tang, for now the helicopter is traversing wild country, swampy and uncultivated.

SOMEWHERE AHEAD, in this empty quarter of the Camau delta, there is a little patch that is farmed—a little patch isolated and normally impossible to reach except by narrow waterways that crisscross the delta. Here the commander of the Communist guerrillas in this province has set up his command post.

To surprise, to envelop, to catch the Communist leader and his troops, are now the missions of the helicopters of the 57th Transportation Squadron and the two companies of Vietnamese soldiers whom they are carrying.

A PATCH OF brighter green shows up ahead. The helicopter all but plummets downwards. The soldiers fan out rapidly, running hunched over, through a dry rice field. And our helicopter and all the others take the air again.

From somewhere comes the quick snick-snack of a sniper's fire. Troops to the left pour round after round into a palm hut. Off to the right appears one of the American advisory officers, red-haired Capt. Jack Cantrell. "I think we landed just a scosh off target," says the captain a bit glumly.

It is a long, hot, toilsome sweep forward. The Rangers are on the right bank of the main canal, and a company of the Civil Guard are on the left bank. The untended canal boats, loaded to the gunwales with the pineapple harvest, show that there was a busy life here not long ago.

The toilsome monotony is broken by another quick snick-snack and another burst of fire. This time an excited soldier races in from the flank with a pitiful bundle of Chinese medicine, political tracts, and carefully written notebooks. The soldier has found and killed the medical officer on the staff of the Communist provincial commander.

THIS LITTLE success is followed by another. Five black-clad Viet Cong troops are discovered huddled, neck-deep in water, under the overhanging bank of a feeder canal.

So the sweep goes forward, slowly and methodically, for a long, hot couple of hours. Nine prisoners are taken.

The little liaison plane endlessly making its turns overhead reports the enemy's main body—about a hundred men—in flight across the fields about two kilometers away. An air strike is called for. Before long fighter planes make their vicious dives.

QUITE SUDDENLY, as if from nowhere, a helicopter returns to pick up a couple of higher-ranking American staff officers who had "come along to get a feel of this kind of show." Capt. Nghe and his Rangers, Capt. Cantrell, and the men of the Civil Guard company all turn to wave as the helicopter ascends again and sets its course for the delta's capital here in Can Tho.

"We catch a few of them every time, and a lot of them every third or fourth time," says the helicopter pilot philosophically.

Reds' Big Boom Slackens

Communist Statistics Are Loose

By ENDRE MARTON

WASHINGTON (AP)—It's too early to say about 1962, but information just now available indicates that 1961 must have been a year of disappointment for the Marxist economic planners of most East European countries.

The tempo of boom—to use an expression that smacks of capitalism—that characterized 1959 and 1960 in those countries changed in 1961 from rapid to slow.

The Communists may immediately retort that (1) the same was true for non-Communist Western Europe, and (2) their statistics still show a greater average rate of growth than those of the capitalist part of the continent.

U. S. specialists would have no great quarrel with such an argument. The first, they say, is unquestionably true. They do have some reservations concerning the second.

Although the statistics for calendar 1961, officials said, were compiled by the United Nations Economic Commission for Europe (ECE), and are the latest and best available, they are based on data submitted by the Communist countries themselves and at least some of them were obviously concocted for propaganda purposes.

Another reason for reservation is more scientific. The basic principles of statistics are applied more loosely in the Communist countries than in the West. Therefore, Communist statistics of national income or indexes of industrial and agricultural output are often useless for purposes of economic analysis or for making comparisons between the Soviet bloc and the West.

For this second reason, U. S. economic experts are satisfied with ECE's handling of the statistics, which consists of comparative percentages only. These percentages, which appear on the accompanying map, clearly show the deceleration of economic growth in 1961, caused mainly by the debacle of agricultural production in what used to be central Europe's break-basket.

According to this table only three nations out of the eight can boast of an increased growth in 1961: Poland, Romania, and Albania.

Agriculture was doubtless the major factor to the acceleration in Poland, the only Communist bloc country which has "decollectivized" its farms. Romania, on the other hand, is the only country in the area which enjoyed progress in industry and trade, mainly in oil. The favorable figures in Albania are somewhat of a mystery considering the tiny "people's republic's" increasing isolation within the European Communist bloc.

The real trouble in 1961 was in agriculture. The serious drought in most countries depressed production in the first year of virtually complete collectivization (except in Poland) throughout the region.

While the "socialist sector" of agriculture, that is the arable land cultivated by collective and state-owned farms, was only 13 per cent in Poland, it was between 86 per cent (in Bulgaria) and 99 per cent (in the Soviet Union) elsewhere. The fact that only Poland—and again Albania—were the exceptions to the general picture of stagnation in agricultural production might be a great satisfaction to those who maintain that no indoctrination or pressure can "persuade" the farmer to toil harder on the field which does not belong to him.

The accompanying table shows the region's global output in agriculture, again in annual percentage rates of growth.

The Polish prenomenon is worth some explanation. Beside the human factor, the Polish farmer's obvious greater interest in toiling on his private plot, the regime of Vladyslaw Gomulka has recognized that it could secure a more stable growth concentrating on animal husbandry, especially pork, poultry and egg production, while importing whatever the country needs in grain.

This, on the other hand, explains Poland's greater concern about the common market. Forty per cent of Poland's exports go to the capitalist countries and the common market's external tariff wall, protecting the agriculture of the six member nations, could have disastrous consequences to the economy of Poland.

Diplomats of these two countries do not conceal their concern. They hint that loss of their Western markets could force Polanad to seek closer economic ties with Moscow.

Although the agricultural picture was and remains rather gloomy in the area in general, there is no question of people going hungry, officials caution. There is enough to eat, but the quality of the products is appallingly low even in such a well-favored agricultural country as Hungary.

But while nobody is starving, there is—and always has been since the Communist takeover in the late 1940s—a frustrating lack of one commodity or another: one day there are no eggs, another day butter disappears.

GLOBAL OUTPUT IN AGRICULTURE COMPARED FOR 3-YEAR PERIOD

NATO Session Putting U.S. On Defensive

Britain Doesn't Want Bombers Abandoned

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

At the NATO meeting in Athens, the United States finds itself on the defensive both militarily and politically.

Britain does not accept NATO supreme commander Gen. Lauris Norstad's view that the intermediate-range ballistic missile is the logical successor to his tactical bombers, which fast are becoming obsolete.

West Germany and some of the smaller nations want several changes made in U. S. policies governing nuclear stockpiling and nuclear weapons.

Both West Germany and France are suspicious of U. S. probing efforts looking toward a settlement of the Berlin question.

On the question of the manned aircraft versus the missile, the British point out that a missile cannot be recalled once it is launched, but a manned plane can.

Indicating that the United States does not entirely oppose the British argument was this week's announcement that the United States would contribute up to 35 million dollars toward development of Britain's revolutionary P-1127, a vertical take-off aircraft.

The P-1127 is capable of supersonic speeds and is designed for use either as an observation plane or fighter.

The question of nuclear stockpiling rises from continuing resentment against exclusive United States control.

West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer goes even farther and demands that the West German army be equipped with nuclear weapons.

The United States will not yield on its determination to prevent as much as possible the spread of nuclear weapons but is expected to give reassurances on the question of consultation.

Demands for consultation spring from two sources. One is a European fear that the U.S. may become "trigger happy" in the event of a threatened conflict. The other is that the U.S. will hesitate to use its weapons out of fear of retaliation against the American continent.

AUSTRIA'S GORBACH: TESTED IN 2 WARS

Chancellor Who Served Time At Dachau Paying Three-Day Visit To Washington

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Perhaps the basic characteristics of Austrian Chancellor Alfons Gorbach, ending a three-day visit to Washington and New York, are the ability to meet adversity and the determination to survive it.

Mixed with these qualities—put to the test during and after two wars—Is another that at times is uncommon in the harsh world of politics: The willingness to forgive those who wronged him personally, as well as Austria itself.

An official biography of the 63-year-old grandfather describes him as "neither a hater nor an ascetic but an Austrian with all the typical Austrian traits: very sociable, loves the company of good friends, and possesses the rare gift to be able to entertain."

Gorbach, who spent most of the years from 1938 until 1945 in Nazi concentration camps, came home after World War II without any chips on his shoulder. He underscored this by announcing he was "determined to plead for those (Austrians) who had been misled or had acted under force" for the Nazis.

But it was in World War I that Gorbach, a teen-age infantryman on the Italian front, first showed his grit and determination.

He and members of his unit fought valiantly against a heavy machine-gun attack. All were killed except the badly wounded Gorbach whose right leg had to be amputated.

It was doubly difficult for the youth who loved track and field sports. But Gorbach refused to let his tough luck get the better of him.

Instead, after he was fully recovered he entered the University of Graz Law School in 1918 and opened the way for a political career.

The determined Austrian did not allow his physical handicap to stymie him in other ways either.

In 1924, he married his wife, Maria, a native of Graz. A year later their only child, a daughter named Alfonsa, was born. By 1928 Gorbach won election to the Graz municipal council and his political career was launched.

In the 1930s he advanced to membership in the provincial government. Then suddenly, on March 16, 1938, his whole world came to an end when the Nazis arrested him in Vienna.

After three days of interrogation by Nazi SS troops, he was sent to the Dachau concentration camp which became his "home" for much of the next eight years.

"The termination of hostilities and the liberation of the detainees by American troops brought his sufferings to an end" is the way one biographical account logically sums up his release at the end of the war.

Gorbach put the war horrors behind him and picked up the threads of his broken political career by helping to found the People's Party.

As leader of the party ticket in his constituency he was delegate to a national assembly in 1945. Fifteen years later Gorbach was named federal chairman of the party.

A year ago Gorbach succeeded Julius Raab as chancellor. Regarded as a political middle-of-the-roader, he is the fourth man to hold the job since World War II.

When the time comes for him to retire Gorbach knows what he wants to do.

"I could not think of a better occupation at the end of my career," he once said, "than to search around in the libraries of Graz and to read."

Behind The News

A Weekly Page of Background Information

This Week in the World

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

A pair of obscure soldiers in far-off Viet Nam; two high-flying spacemen; and a couple of veteran campaigners in the south, furnished hard news in a week marked by a lull in cold-war acrimony.

Sgts. Francis Quinn of Niagara Falls, N.Y., and George E. Groom of St. Joseph, Mo., held captive by Communist guerrillas for some three weeks, suddenly were released Wednesday in strife-torn Viet Nam.

The men were unable to tell interrogators in Saigon why they were set free. The sergeants, who had arrived in Viet Nam only two days prior to their capture, said they had been treated "correctly" during their 22-day internment in a peasant hut on a mountain.

Less fortunate were Sgts. Wayne E. Marchand and James Gabriel who were captured with Quinn and Groom. Their bodies, shot through the head, were found on a jungle trail by a rescue party. The circumstances surrounding their death remain obscure.

In the United States, visiting Russian cosmonaut Maj. Gherman Titov met with his opposite number Lt. Col. John H. Glenn and discussed their history-making orbital flights.

The personable Russian revealed additional details of his epochal 25-hour flight through space last Aug. 26 but refused to be pinned down in areas which he evidently considered top-secret.

Questioned about Communist reluctance to reveal information about his capsule Titov time and again returned to the current Red line on disarmament, claiming that only after international agreement on disarmament could there be joint Russian-American ventures into space.

Like any tourist Titov seemed appalled by traffic and lack of greenery in New York. He expressed a preference for Washington where he was shown the sights by Glenn.

Going up in an elevator in the Washington monument Titov remarked to Glenn that it constituted the first Soviet-American venture into space.

In Alabama former Gov. James E. (Kissin' Jim) Folsom apparently was beaten in his try for a place on the Democratic gubernatorial primary runoff. The colorful, six-foot, eight-inch Folsom was about 3,000 votes shy of second place on the ballot and a runoff with first place winner ex-Judge George C. Wallace a staunch segregationist. Victory in the Democratic primary is tantamount to election in Alabama.

In Arkansas, controversial Gov. Orval Faubus surprised constituents by announcing his intention to run for an unprecedented fifth term. Earlier he had announced his decision to retire from politics.

Other developments:

In Moscow, a short May Day parade of 40 minutes duration contrasted with more militant demonstrations of previous years. In Berlin's Marx-Engels Platz goose-stepping troops flaunted new military equipment including new Russian ground-to-air missiles said to be of the type that downed America's U-2 plane over Russia. In Peiping, parading Chinese displayed pictures of Stalin, a symbol of disaffection in the Communist world.

In Algeria the OAS, working desperately to upset the cease-fire, unleashed one of their worst acts of terrorism. A bobby trapped car packed with explosives exploded in a crowd of 1,500 Moslems near the Algerian waterfront. Thirty people were killed and 110 wounded including nine children.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk told NATO foreign ministers assembled in Athens he saw no softening of the Soviet attitude on key East-West problems.

President John F. Kennedy told the annual meeting of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce his administration was not "anti-business." His remarks were received coolly by the assembled businessmen. Kennedy also met with American Medical Assn. leaders to discuss his legislation to finance medical care for the aged. Both sides said later nothing had been resolved.

SHOWING OFF A GIFT—Chancellor Alfons Gorbach of Austria whips an old Austrian Navy cutlass from its scabbard as he presents the weapon, used in the mid-1880s, to President John F. Kennedy at the White House. The presentation was after a conference and luncheon. (AP Wirephoto)

Experts Are Like St. George —They Don't Fear Dragons

Many years ago, dragons had a soft touch. As soon as a dragon appeared, people gave up. It took a lot of hard work on the part of people like St. George before the man in the street stopped being scared of dragons. (And now you're probably ready to bet a few bob that I can't produce a bridge hand to prove all this.)

South won the first trick with the ace of hearts, drew two rounds of trumps with the ace and king, cashed the king of hearts, and ran the diamonds. West refused to ruff the third diamond, but South then led a trump to force West into the lead.

SOUTH GLOATS: "You're end-played," South gloated.

West sat numb with horror, just as though he had seen a dragon. (See—it was easy.) Without thinking of St. George, West led a low club.

Declarer played low from dummy and captured East's queen with the ace. South then led a club and won a finesse with dummy's ten. This brought home the slam.

SHOULDN'T GIVE UP: There was no need for West to give up when he was thrown in. It was obvious his partner had the queen of clubs, since otherwise South had no problem in clubs.

West should have returned the jack of clubs instead of a low club. No matter where declarer won the trick or how he continued he would still have to lose a club trick.

For example, suppose declarer wins in dummy with the king of clubs. If he then returns the ten of clubs from dummy, East covers with the queen to force out the ace. West eventually wins a club trick with the lowly nine.

Next time you're caught in an end play try returning a high card. Maybe you'll be eating dragon hash for the rest of the week.

ALMANAC

Today is Saturday, May 5, the 125th day of the year with 240 to follow in 1962.

The moon is approaching its first quarter.

The morning stars are Jupiter and Saturn.

The evening stars are Mercury and Venus.

On this day in history:

In 1821, Napoleon Bonaparte died in exile on the Island of St. Helena.

In 1925, John Scopes, a biology teacher in the Dayton, Tenn., public school system, was arrested for teaching the theory of evolution in violation of a state statute.

In 1955, the Federal Republic of Germany became a sovereign state.

A thought for the day: Latin poet Horace said: "They change their climate, not their disposition, who run beyond the sea."

SO IT IS BRAND NEW? SO WHAT?

Who wants a new house anyhow? Now when termites are so popular and you can fix up any old shack with a couple of improvement loans. How do you cook in one of those jazzed up elect. kitchens? What do you means 3 rooms to sleep in and two for bathing, central heat, fireplace, deck and those conspicuous glass doors? Yea, I saw the carpet and the drapes, too. But who wants to live in such a fine place. It makes you soft.

BUT FOR THE ONES WHO DON'T MIND $2500 DOWN . . . THAT'S ALL . . . AND IT'S YOURS.

MARRIED? NOT MARRIED!

I don't care. I just want you to be the first to live here. I was just very well built, two cute bedrooms, and oddball fireplace, a long deck, good flooring, and a dandy place for the "gastronome de la femme." Come up and see me. 33 Vinyard, San Rafael. Civic Center Post Office Opening

The Civic Center Post Office which will serve about 5,000 homes and businesses will be formally dedicated on May 19, it was announced today by Postmaster Warren H. Williams.

Speaking at the dedication ceremonies will be Raymond R. Holmquist, post office department regional director for western states.

Also appearing will be many post office officials and civic leaders.

The branch office, designed by Frank Lloyd Wright as part of the civic center complex, will be under the direction of Jack Benz, superintendent, and Edward Burdisso, assistant superintendent, both of whom have worked at the San Rafael Post Office since 1941. Robert Brough will be clerk.

Transferred to the new branch will be 13 delivery carriers and two parcel post carriers who have previously worked north of Puerto Suello Hill.

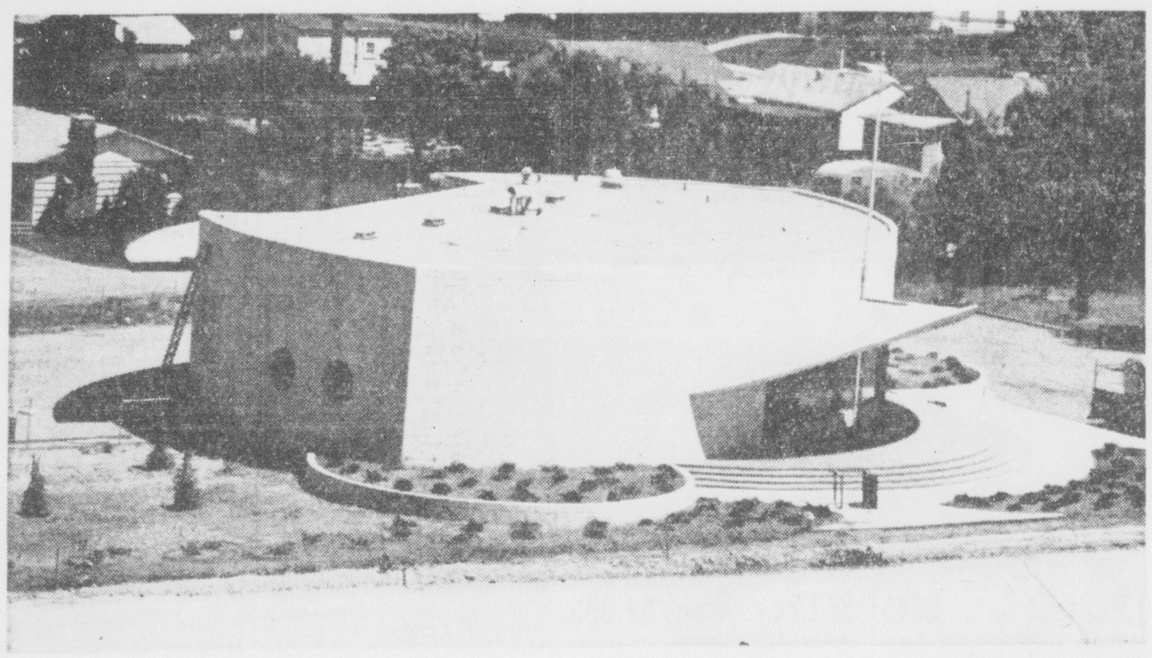
Postal services for the area, formerly handled out of the San Rafael Branch, will be offered from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays and from 8 a.m. to noon on Saturday. It will become the second classified branch of the San Rafael Post Office, the other being Kentfield Post Office which opened in 1952.

The Santa Venetia contract branch will be closed after opening of the civic center branch.

Special delivery mail will still be delivered to the San Rafael office, but can be picked up at the civic center branch when the carrier has failed to make delivery and a notice has been left.

Post office boxes are available for rent and a special carrier will operate between the post office and the county offices in the civic center. Parking space for customers is available.

The new building is on almost an acre of land leased from the county on the southwest side of Golf Avenue north of San Pedro Road. John J. McDonnell of Upper Darby, Pa., was successful bidder on construction of the building and leasing of the land.



POST OFFICE 'FAMILY' GROWS—Newest addition to the San Rafael Post Office system is the Civic Center Branch, scheduled for opening with formal dedication ceremonies on May 19. The new branch, to be operated by three full time officials and 15 carriers, is on Golf Avenue north of San Pedro Road. Special carriers will operate between county offices in the new Civic Center and the new Post Office. (Independent-Journal photo)

ADDED POST — William J. Ball of 9 Nunan, San Rafael, San Francisco admiralty lawyer and director of Parr-Richmond Terminal Co., operators of the Port of Richmond, has been elected secretary of the company, announced president John Paar Cox.

Permit Is Granted For 90 Apartments

Ardilla Land Co. has received a building permit to construct 90 units of apartments in Sausalito's Rodeo Avenue area.

Construction on the $1,370,000 project will begin within 30 days, part owner F. Bruce Bernhard said today.

Twin City Troupers Plan 'Hasty Heart'

"The Hasty Heart," a three-act drama by John Patrick, will be presented by the Twin City Troupers in Larkspur's Henry C. Hall School on May 18, 19, 25 and 26.

Curtain time for the four performances will be 8 p.m.

H. H. (Bart) Bartholomew of Novato will play the role of Lachie, a wounded soldier who is transferred to a convalescent ward in a British temporary hospital in the Southeast Asia command during World War II.

The change of Lachie from a bitter young man to a friendly person is the theme of the drama.

There is one woman in the cast, Sabella Fernandez of Larkspur, who plays Sister Margaret, the ward nurse. Mrs. Fernandez has studied in New York with Lee Strasberg and Uta Hagen and has appeared in off-Broadway New York plays.

Other members of the cast include Al Fowler of Santa Venetia, who plays Yank; John Mill of San Rafael as Blossom, Larry Selna of Mill Valley as Kiwi, Ernie Widlund as the Cockney Tommy, Steve Gutman of Ross as the orderly, and his brother Stan Gutman as digger.

Directing the show will be Ralph White of Corte Madera. White has been directing shows for the Troupers for three years.

Set designer is Bud Gutman, father of the two brothers in the cast.

Rene MacDonald, a member of the Troupers, is coaching the players in British accents. Miss MacDonald is a native of England and had been a performer as both a dancer and actress for more than 15 years before making her home in the U.S.

June Hayden, a nurse at Marin General Hospital, is showing how the hospital routine should be performed.

The Twin City Troupers are sponsored by the Larkspur-Corte Madera Joint Recreation Commission.

Merrill (Mike) Convis of San Anselmo, history teacher and counselor at Sir Francis Drake High School, has been awarded a summer scholarship sponsored by the California Council of Parents and Teachers to do graduate work in guidance at Sacramento State College.

Judge Orders 2 Marin Men To Vacaville For Treatment

Two San Rafael men, who have been arrested for a series of violations but have never before served in state prison, finally made it to the diagnostic treatment facility in the state prison at Vacaville yesterday.

Judge Thomas F. Keating of Marin Superior Court ordered Bernard Duane Montbriand, 25, and James Joseph Jameson, 26, sent to Vacaville for 90 days. He asked for a report and recommendations from state prison officials within the 90 days.

Probation officials cited the long records of both men and recommended state prison for the two.

Montbriand, who gave his address as 14 Sentinel Court, San Rafael, was arrested last Feb. 1 for car theft. San Rafael police nabbed him a few minutes after he had stolen a 1960 Thunderbird from 255 Canal Street and was about to drive it away.

Montbriand has had about 20 arrests, including a burglary, battery, car thefts, several drunken driving convictions, and a series of traffic violations including a 90-mile-per-hour chase over Highway 101.

The judge noted that Montbriand has been on probation four times and served several jail terms including one year in the county jail, but these did not halt his brushes with the law.

Jameson, who listed his address as 2131 Fifth Avenue, was brought back from Las Vegas last month on a felony bad check warrant. While on probation, he had gone to Las Vegas without reporting to his probation officer.

In 1960 Jameson drew a one-year jail term and five years' probation for bad checks. The judge at that time warned that he would face a state prison term if he ran afoul of the law again.

Probation officials reported that they have tried everything for Jameson—jail, work furlough and supervised probation—all to no avail.

His first serious offense occurred in 1955 when he was convicted of assault with a deadly weapon and conspiracy to commit rape.

San Rafael Again Gets Fire Marshal

San Rafael is to have a fire marshal again, according to decision Thursday of the San Rafael Fire Commission.

Though the position has been technically in existence, it has been combined with the fire chief's job since the death of Virgilio Cheda over two years ago.

Members of the commission, according to Chairman Louis H. Baar, decided it would strengthen the authority and prestige of the head of the Fire Prevention Bureau to give him this title.

At present the work is handled by an inspector on each shift but it is expected that someone will soon be announced as appointee.

Baar said the commission was successful in making some small budget cuts but that "it's a tough job where the bulk of the budget is made up of wages."

Novatan New Assistant Bank Veep

A Novato resident, David O. Matson of 1415 Monte Maria Avenue, is now an assistant vice president at Bank of America's head office in San Francisco.

His promotion in the international banking department, where he is senior area relations officers for the Middle East and Africa, was announced by F. E. Young, vice president and personnel officer.

Born in Jerusalem, Matson completed his early schooling in the Middle East. He was graduated from the University of California at Berkeley before he joined the bank in 1956.

Matson is vice president of the Rancho School Parent-Teacher Assn., and a member of the Golden Gate Alumni Club of Sigma Pi fraternity. He and his wife, Janet, have two daughters, Candace and Kimberly.

Redwood High Teacher To Attend Institute

Marilyn J. Root of Corte Madera, Redwood High School history teacher and counselor, is one of 40 teachers from throughout the nation selected for an advanced counseling and guidance training institute in Portland, Ore., this summer.

The eight-week session will be financed by a federal grant of the National Defense Education Act.

Marin Bar Is Assailed By Lawyer

Attorney Edward E. Heavey of San Francisco charged today the Marin County Bar Assn. "believes in free speech except on issues it may not be in accord with."

Heavey claimed the Marin Bar would not let him appear before it to ask support of a resolution he has introduced before the State Bar Assn. conference each year since 1957 to make Communist Party membership grounds for disbarment.

He plans to introduce it again before the State Bar meeting in Los Angeles Sept. 17-21.

Heavey said he received a letter of rejection yesterday from S. J. Hugh Allen, president of the Marin Bar Assn. He said Allen wrote him that his request was put to a "joint April meeting of directors and members . . ."

"A vote was taken and I was thereby instructed to advise you is was the association's decision to forego any presentation for or against this issue prior to the state bar meeting."

$135 Snuff Bottle Shoplift Reported

Three youths were reported to have shoplifted a $135 carved agate snuff bottle Thursday afternoon from Heritage House at 215 Second St., Sausalito.

Ward Young, part owner of the antique shop, reported to police that two boys and a girl, all dressed in jeans, entered his store and after they left, the bottle was missing.

Bob, The Village Cabbie

His Passengers Are His Friends

By BRUCE COLEMAN

As California villages begin to bulge with people, they become towns and cities.

But Mill Valley, born a village, must remain a village. It has the essentials. Lying at the foot of a mountain, its roads end in a cul-de-sac, bottom of a bag. There is no throughway.

Redwoods and oaks hide its houses and people. Its streets, once called cow paths, remain narrow and winding, with some residents refusing to allow paving.

"IF EVERYONE referred to it as a village, it would have a great deal to do with the way it develops. I always call it a village."

This is G. W. (Bob) Robertson's viewpoint.

"Few villages, big or little, have a village clock," says Bob. "Everyone who passes either consciously or unconsciously looks at that clock. It has been five minutes slow since the last storm. No one cares. It was donated by volunteer firemen in 1929."

THIS CLOCK is at the heart of the village. Here, by day, the station wagons filled with children and dogs spin round and round the square. And, by 9 p.m., all is quiet.

Here the buses come and go. Here are the benches and, on sunny afternoons, members of the Bench Sitter's Club. It is at this hub the taxis line their stalls, watching for the lights on the depot wall to blink.

The third one to the right is Bob's. It blinks frequently.

Bob is the cabbie to whom little kids on corners yell, "Hi, Bob." He is the guy who stops on Miller Avenue to give a teenager in a 1940 car a push.

He's the guy who takes people for rides while delivering a fare—with the paying passenger's permission.

In the language of the streets, he's a "sweetheart." And he knows the streets. He's been pushing his taxi up and down the steep hills since 1946.

Riding with him in his high 1950 Chrysler, Bob went first to Rutherford's Pharmacy. Would he deliver some prescriptions needed urgently? Yes.

He took a package to a lady in a wheelchair, one to a woman with small children who could not get into town. He said cost of the delivery is the same as for a person. After all, the distance is the same.

Bob sometimes delivers groceries in this manner but prefers not to since, obviously, people are more interesting than packages.

The good natured cabbie, who has been described as Mill Valley's goodwill ambassador on wheels, circled back to his stall. The light was on again.

"It's time to pick up Tricia Nagel at Park School," said Robertson.

TRICIA IS VERY able except her eyesight is not good enough to permit her to walk to school safely.

"You're a giggle box," said Tricia. "You like to laugh."

We agreed.

"I'm taking Tricia to the ball game a week from Sunday," Bob declared. "She knows every player, every team."

Bob, too, is a baseball fan. His team, the Giants. He also plays golf.

For the past 10 years he has driven handicapped youngsters to school and back. He has three now. The Mill Valley School District is reimbursed for the cost involved in transporting physically handicapped minors.

Bob understands well the handicapped. His wife, Bernice, suffered polio in 1944 and was not expected to live. Bob drove her by ambulance from San Diego to San Francisco.

Following one year hospitalization she was able to return home where she has recovered much of the use of her limbs and now acts as taxi dispatcher for her husband.

Bob also drives Jack Laurie, 13, to Edna Maguire and Katie Brockway, 5, to Old Mill. Jack rides in front, his wheelchair in back. Of Katie, Bob says: "She's my pinup girl," pointing to a picture of Katie fastened to the sun visor.

"Most of my passengers are my friends," said Bob. "I have loaned people money, helped out in floods and other emergencies. One time a lady left her baby in the cab and I had to baby sit until she returned. I took the baby on my trips."

HE COMMENTED that he has had close calls in taking expectant mothers to the hospital but has never had to deliver a baby.

"But," he said, "I carry a pair of scissors with me in the cab just in case."

With many of his passengers, Bob is on a first name basis. It's Rosie, Josephine, Dag and Susie—not Mr. this or Mrs. that.

"I started driving cab when I got out of the Navy," said the affable Robertson. "The thing that impressed me about Mill Valley most was the people, the beautiful town and the terrific amount of civic pride."

Texas-born, son of a horse and cattle rancher, Bob left home at 15 to join the army. After the army he went to business school. He moved about, became a dental assistant in Chicago two years, a deputy clerk for Internal Revenue Service in St. Louis, a timekeeper with a Los Angeles packing firm.

Before World War II he became a shipfitter in Los Angeles. In 1941 he came to Marinship as shipfitter and later became a leaderman, then foreman.

Bob worked as a welding inspector for Bethlehem Steel in San Francisco in 1944. In 1945 he decided to enter the taxi business and bought the Mill Valley Taxi Co., consisting of two cabs.

"I had ridden Mill Valley taxis occasionally and found that sometimes you had to ride with two or three others before being dropped at home. I like the idea—meeting people—and this decided me."

THE ROBERTSONS have one son, Albert (Bunky). He is 18, a senior at Tamalpais.

"He's crazy about cars," said Bob.

Bunky works for Jolly Markets to earn spare money, said his father.

We had arrived at a home in the Locust area.

"Almost forgot you, Josephine," said Bob. "I thought so," she replied.

Bob said he and his wife were the first family to move into the new tract, Sycamore Village, built during the war by George C. Goheen.

We drove back to Lytton Square and the light was on again. Two bench sitters were warming themselves in the sun.

Bob spoke of talking to his passengers on civic affairs, how he just finished working for candidate Rodric L. Robinson for city council.

"Marine World is the big issue now," he said.

"The most important thing I have done," said Bob, "is to

He Likes Mill Valley As Village

'I Wouldn't Want Better Streets,' Says Cab Driver

"The club was successful in getting rid of Mill Valley's garbage dump and, in its place, 17 acres of land deeded to the city specifically for recreational area. It is now Project 17."

Project 17 actually started in Bob's cab which was "a rolling office," according to Jack Younger. Younger, who headed the Recreation Council, Inc., sponsoring Project 17, said there were many meetings held in the cab right at the old dump site.

"Bob called the meeting," Younger said. "He would rub his hands, push his cap back on his head, get an ear to ear grin and say 'Let's get started.'" Some of the men on those first cab meetings were Jack Lentz, Ted Dundas, Rodric L. Robinson, William Woods, Steve Kramer, A. E. Almcrants and Robert D. Huber, mayor. Of course, not all at the same time.

THE 17-ACRE area was planned to include a teen-age center, a quarter-midget racing oval, riding ring, miniature golf links, baseball diamonds and other facilities. Of these, at the present, the riding ring and one baseball diamond have materialized.

Robertson, according to Younger, was also responsible for the most part in what was called "Project 17 Day," a day when men of the 579th Combat Engineer Battalion, National Guard, worked with heavy equipment to bring fill from Enchanted Knolls to the project. This was 1958. The dirt was given by the late subdivider, Talcott W. Seaver.

"It should have been called 'Bob Robertson Day,'" Younger related. "We got $2,000 worth of work and $1,000 worth of fill for providing the volunteers with 10 bucks worth of hamburgers and soft drinks. It was due mostly to Bob."

On another occasion Robertson got men to come from the 666th Radar Squadron atop Mount Tamalpais to help decorate Mill Valley for Christmas in 1960.

Another project of Robertson's was "Operation Christmas Star." Stimulated by his promotion work, a five and one-half foot high neon star was placed atop a redwood tree in Lytton Square.

On this job Bob was chairman of the Chamber of Commerce Christmas Decoration Committee, 1955. The star was placed on the 90-foot tree by helicopter by Al Canet, nephew of Police Capt. Joe Canet.

ROBERTSON was chairman of a "Buy Bonds Committee" in Marinship. In 1957 he was named Parks and Recreation commissioner. In 1958 and 1959 he was secretary-treasurer of the Mill Valley Golf Club and instigated building the present club room at the clubhouse.

Bob is especially keen on Mill Valley having a teen-age center.

"I found out 15 years ago how badly a youth program was needed by talking to kids and, especially, their parents. This is where my love lies," he said.

"Project 17 was launched to build a teen-age center in 1958. I got a bulldozer donated by Tony Brabo. He was first to donate his time.

"I feel we're going to have a center. We're not giving up. It's badly needed. Lots of kids hang out in laundromats at night just for a place to go."

He cited a Santa Clara youth center where, he said, "kids set their own rules, allow no smoking and see that each other has a haircut."

Lucretia Hanson, former longtime reporter for the Mill Valley Record, says: "I have been very much impressed with Bob's civic interests. I don't know anyone who has a deeper interest or greater knowledge of the town and the things that are cooking than he. And, he does something about it. He doesn't just talk.

"He takes a personal interest in his customers. One couple didn't know they could get county aid. He got information for them. When he hears of need, he does something about it."

By Rodric L. Robinson, Bob is defined as "like a big St. Bernard dog. He'll do anything for you. He's done a tremendous amount for this city.

"But, he's never the chairman. He's the guy everyone calls on when they want something done. He runs not only a taxi service. He runs a philanthropic service as well. It's fantastic."

THERE HAVE been rough times for Robertson. His wife was in the hospital. Bob, himself, had 13 operations in 1957-59 following a kidney ailment which kept him hospitalized for much of 18 months and nearly cost him his life.

He is very proud of two certificates of appreciation, one from the people of Mill Valley for his work on the Parks and Recreation Commission, another for work as coordinator in Christmas decorations in 1960.

Likewise he says he is proud to have won a county-wide prize in 1961 for Christmas decorations before his home in a contest co-sponsored by the San Rafael junior chamber and the Independent-Journal.

He worked on recent Easter floral decorations sponsored by the Mill Valley Chamber of Commerce.

Bob says he makes about 25 trips per day. He works 7:30 a.m. to 6 p.m., five days per week.

"I've never had an accident," he said, looking at his car which he sometimes calls "our bread and butter," or "old Betsy."

WE ARRIVED back at the clock. The high school youngsters were out of school. Soon the commuters would be pouring into the square. Bob's light was on.

"I have about a half a dozen people who love to ride along if they have no place to go," siad the cab driver. "I had one this morning. I took Mrs. J. H. Chesnut for a ride up to Mountain Home. She just loves it."

Of the village, Bob says "I wouldn't want the streets to be any wider or better paved. It's a village."

Of his taxi, he says, "They don't make them like this any more." On the outside, a sign reads simply "Bob's Taxi."

On the inside is Bob, goodwill ambassador on wheels.

It isn't often that I use my column as an editorial, but occasionally a local situation arises that demands that you, the Marin County Public, be given the straight, true facts. This situation concerning YOUR TAX DOLLAR concerns me so directly that you are getting the facts "straight from the horse's mouth."

For the past several weeks, our firm has been coordinating with the appropriate College of Marin personnel to find out the exact requirements for the Language Lab that they were planning to install, and to explain from a technical aspect the advantages of using the highest quality and the most reliable equipment. The Language Lab went out for bid, and at 2 p.m., on April 16th the bids were publicly opened. The bid figures were as follows: Teaching Aids Inc. was the HIGHEST bidder at $11,487, Skinner Hirch and Kaye bid $10,690, and Catania Sound was the LOWEST bidder at $10,449.

On the evening of April 26th, the College of Marin Trustees awarded the purchase to Teaching Aids Inc. of Long Beach, the Highest bidder. During the entire week preceding the Trustees meeting, no one from the College language department approached our firm to question OUR SUPPORT OF CLAIMS. WE CLAIMED IN OUR BID TO FURNISH EQUIPMENT THAT WAS NOT ONLY EQUAL TO THE MONITOR EQUIPMENT SPECIFIED BY THE COLLEGE, BUT IN MANY RESPECTS WOULD BE SUPERIOR TO THE EQUIPMENT SPECIFIED. WE ALSO OFFERED FIVE EXTRA STUDENT POSITIONS THAT COULD BE USED FOR FUTURE EXPANSION. We also pointed out that since we are here in the County, we can offer the College fast, efficient service.

The point is, that your College of Marin Trustees have chosen to send $11,487 to a Long Beach firm, the HIGHEST bidder, instead of awarding the purchase and the work to an experienced Marin County firm which happened to be the LOWEST bidder by more than $1000.00. At no time has any one from the College offered to show that our equipment and that our services would be inferior to that of the Long Beach organization.

Needless to say, I have retained a San Rafael attorney, to investigate the legality of awarding contracts to the HIGHEST RESPONSIBLE bidder, instead of to the LOWEST RESPONSIBLE bidder.

An interesting sidelight is that Monitor Language Lab equipment, of Washington, D.C., is sold through Teaching Aids Inc. also of Washington, D.C., apparently with branch organizations throughout the country. It's no wonder that the specifications were written to specify Monitor equipment. I wonder, do you suppose that lobbyists in Washington, D.C. discover which schools are requesting Federal assistance for their language labs and then pounce on the schools and influence them with their specifications?

Another interesting sidelight is that the largest percentage of the Monitor systems use tape recorders manufactured by the company that I represented and whose equipment I proposed to furnish. The big difference was that I proposed to furnish the most deluxe tape recorders, whereas Monitor usually uses the cheapest of this same companies tape recorders, of course with their Monitor label.

It is indeed shameful that in our County, such large sums of money as $11,487.00 are sent out to Long Beach personnel to purchase inferior type equipment for $1000.00 more than could be furnished and installed by a Marin County firm that has established its reputation for quality and service over the past 14 years.

The Good Ship Imagination

BY CORENA GREEN

If you believe in motivated learning, the following will be familiar but interesting.

If you don't know what it is, read and learn.

But if you know what it is and don't believe in it, read no further. You will only get yourself involved in an argument.

It's the story of a third grade class at Bel Aire School in the Reed district. State curriculum prescribes the study of transportation at this grade level. But this particular third grade, taught by Mrs. Les Forsyth, decided their study of transportation would be more meaningful and greater fun if its members could go on a trip.

BUT WHERE can 25 third graders travel within the time limits of a school day?

The answer, the pupils and their teacher decided, is anywhere their hearts desired—providing their journey was an imaginary one.

And so the boys and girls decided to make such an imaginary trip and chose Hawaii as their destination.

Mrs. Forsyth approved wholeheartedly of the choice—for it served not only the need for transportation studies, but also fitted perfectly as preparation for another unit of study which the children will undertake when they become fourth graders called "Islands of the Pacific."

In fact the trip to Hawaii has provided the pupils with valuable experience in a number of their subject fields.

For geography, the children learned of the customs, folklore, racial makeup, climate, etc., of the islands, always, of course, with the aid of maps.

Science requirements were met by a study of the marine life, native plants and fauna of the islands.

A study of the Hawaiian alphabet stimulated an interest in why and how our vowels and consonants differ. The children compiled a dictionary workbook, wrote letters, stories and poetry, and learned supplemental spelling in addition to the weekly grade level requirements. Thus were their spelling and language studies abetted.

Arithmetic involved the comparative prices of travel by various means (in addition to the day to day drilling in the times tables). The children were exposed to numerals in miles, heights, feet, width, air currents, time changes and baggage requirements as they winged their way westward (in their imagination) across the wide Pacific.

THE MUSIC AND DANCE of the Pacific islands is an essential part of any study of that colorful geographic area. Here some of the Bel Aire third graders display their mastery of the Hukilau, a Hawaiian dance describing the fun of a fishing expedition and outing. Left to right are Susan Nelson, 7, Paul Schubart, 8, and Janet Allen, 8. (Independent-Journal photos)

History, of course, is a show stopper, for where else could one find such fascinating stories as those of Captain Cook, the Hawaiian royal family with its Victorian mores, the superstitions surrounding the volcanoes, the great families of commerce, the missionaries, the varied races and of course, recent statehood?

MUSIC AND art as parts of the study are obvious.

But everything could not be answered out of the textbooks and supplemental reading. So Mrs. Forsyth went to the community for special events and came up with two.

A special trip was arranged so the children could visit the S.S. President Cleveland and learn about ship travel. This was done in February and it is surprising there were no stowaways when the ship finally sailed for faraway ports. Only Mrs. Forsyth and the chaperoning mothers can be credited with the fact that the entranced children remained at home port.

The second appeal to the community was to the Tiburon Peninsula Club to send its Nani Iolani Polynesian dancers. The group specializes in ancient form of dancing using split bamboo sticks, feathered gourds and coconut shells which they had learned by taking classes at the club.

The children reciprocated the day the group performed by dancing the Hukilau which describes the fun of a picnic and fishing expedition.

According to Mrs. Forsyth, the objective of the project was not only to learn about transportation, but also to learn how others live.

ACCORDING to pupil Zoya Mooromsky, "We just didn't want to study about ships. We wanted to go somewhere. So we decided to go to Hawaii. We studied about Hawaiian music, birds, flowers and life."

There is no question but what Mrs. Forsyth is an enthusiastic devotee of our newest state. And it seems obvious that a visit to the islands will be an early goal of the children. And when they do go they will know more about the islands than many of the natives.

Pumpernikle Puppets Have The Answer To Fidgity Audience

'If The Show Is Good, Children Will Listen And Respond To It'

By DON KEOWN

Individually they are Don Deane of Kentfield and Elaine Mitchell of Sausalito.

Collectively they are the Pumpernikle Puppeteers.

And although a relatively new entry into the field of children's entertainment in the Bay Area, they have already carved for their Pumpernikle Puppets a considerable reputation for imaginative productions which delight the small fry.

Don and Elaine attribute their success to this formula:

"We present shows FOR children, not TO them."

Given the opportunity, they will amplify their views:

"It is our belief that too many theatrical productions are presented to the children with the idea that they must sit still, be quiet and pay close attention, whereas, if a show FOR children is successful, the producers needn't concern themselves with the behavior of the audience.

"IN OTHER WORDS, if the show is good, the children will listen and respond. If it is dull or boring, the young audience will fidgit.

"Therefore, it is up to the entertainers to ENTERTAIN."

And that, they say, is the basis for the success of the Pumpernikle Puppets.

SAUSALITO Little Theater on Bridgeway serves as home base for the puppeteers. There in July of 1961 the "troupe" presented its first production—"Sleeping Beauty." Since then the puppets have played three runs at the Sausalito Little Theater plus other performances in various little theaters and auditoriums throughout the Bay Area.

The most recent success was a production of "Jack and the Beanstalk" in conjunction with the Music for Minors series in the San Rafael High School auditorium.

Currently the Pumpernikle company is playing an original, "Mort, the Miserable Magician" by Jon Sutton, in the Sausalito Little Theater on Saturday and Sunday afternoons at 2:30 o'clock. The run continues through May 20.

Don Deane is a San Francisco State student who first became interested in puppets while living in Germany with his family.

A suitcase full of the fascinating little characters returned to this country with him and were brought out last summer when Elaine Mitchell suggested that puppeteering might provide an interesting and valuable addition to the Marin theatrical scene.

Within four weeks of that original discussion, the first production opened.

During those four weeks, a portable theater, 10 feet two inches high, six feet wide and six feet deep, had been designed, constructed and equipped.

The stage is four and a half feet from the floor with an opening four feet wide and two feet high. Miniature spotlights, draw curtains, scenery and dimmer board complete the self-contained unit.

MRS. MITCHELL'S entire family became involved in the project. Husband David built the theater. Elaine did the sewing. And their two children, Melanie, 4, and Mike, 7, serve as advance critics, with Mike now graduating to miniature prop builder and story consultant.

Elaine, long active in Sausalito Little Theater, first became acquainted with Don Deane while the two were working in the summer melodrama, "East of the Rockies," two years ago.

And it was during this same production that the two met Jon Sutton, author of their present show.

Elaine says her idea for launching the puppet productions stemmed from an awareness of the scarcity of "live" entertainment for children in the area.

There was, she thought, an acute need for some kind of creative theater tailored especially for the small fry and adhering to high standards of performance.

"And," she asks, "what better luck than to meet with some one who had already done such shows, and who had a suitcase full of puppets?"

Familiar fairy tales have been the basis for most of the Pumpernikle productions — with the general story adapted to four hands and available puppet characters.

Thus, instead of "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs," it was "Snow White and the Two."

"You can't do seven dwarfs with only four hands," Elaine explains.

"Mort, the Miserable Magician" marks their first original. All dialogue is ad lib, so the story and plot serve only as "the taking-off point."

All voices, puppet movements, sound effects, magic effects, etc.,—in short, everything—is done by Don Deane and Elaine Mitchell.

However, Don and Elaine do not make their own puppets.

Puppet construction they regard as a separate artistic form. They prefer to concentrate their efforts upon putting a good show together.

The puppets they use are generally imported from Germany with only an occasional "special" constructed by Elaine.

COSTUMES, props, special effects, voices, music tapes, curtains and all the rest of the required equipment are sufficient to keep the puppeteers busy between productions.

Each show represents hours of study and effort.

But Don and Elaine find the fascinated interest with which youngsters in their audiences follow the antics of Mort the Magician and his colleagues to be ample reward for that effort.

YOU AND YOUR INSURANCE

OUTBOARD MOTOR BOAT OWNERS ADVISED TO UPDATE INSURANCE

A motor boat owner writes to ask what special liability insurance, if any, he needs to safeguard his property and protect against liability claims.

He points out that the sport has grown tremendously and wants to be certain his insurance coverage is up to date.

The population explosion in motor boats during the last decade has brought about several changes in insurance coverages. For many years motor boat insurance was included in comprehensive personal liability policies and homeowners policies. With the growth of the sport, however, came a change in coverage.

Today owners of motors of more than 10 horsepower must pay a special premium, depending upon the size of the motor. Engines of less than 10 horsepower need not be separately insured for liability coverages.

Rates for insuring larger motors are determined by the section of the country in which the boat is used. Early this spring it was determined that since motor boat owners in the northern states used their crafts only during the summer months the premiums should be proportionately lower. As a result, the rates were reduced 20 per cent.

Should an outboard motorist injure a swimmer, persons in his craft or in another boat, he would be covered under liability insurance. The policy also provides for medical payments. Property damage coverage generally is based on the value of the insured craft. While homeowners policies cover up to $500 for fire or theft, owners of more expensive equipment should consider purchasing a special policy.

Handicapped Help Build Their Center

They Were In Front Ranks Of Volunteers

By LARINE BROWN

A year ago an appeal went out from the Marin Society for Crippled Children and Adults Inc.

A site had been purchased by the organization for its new Easter Seal Center. What were needed now were volunteer labor and donations to convert the old home at 629 Mission Avenue, San Rafael, into suitable headquarters for the program for the handicapped.

THE RESPONSE from the community was heartwarming.

And in the forefront among the volunteers who came forward were the handicapped themselves.

Typical was Bill Young, a paraplegic and a resident of Live Oak Drive in Mill Valley who has been a cheerful and active member of the society's adult recreation center for a number of years.

His participation in that recreation program led Young to an interest in the appearance of the grounds around the new center. And being a "green thumber," he played a leading role in the planting of flowers as part of the landscaping program.

A blind San Rafael man, also in the recreation group, was superintendent Carl Schiller's chief assistant in digging the necessary lines for the installation of adequate drains.

A man whose son had benefitted from Easter Seal funds in his fight for recovery from serious burns did the plastering free of charge. The son had required extensive skin grafting and blood donations plus long hospitalization. The father was more than eager to repay the Easter Seal program with his skill.

AND A ONE-ARMED man was responsible for most of the painting of the new center. Not personally the recipient of direct aid from the society, his own condition, nevertheless, had instilled in him a keen appreciation of the work of the organization.

These and other handicapped, plus donations of materials, money and work from their friends and the Marin community in general, have seen the project through to completion.

Now the new center stands

MILL VALLEY RESIDENT Bill Young didn't let the fact that he is a paraplegic prevent him from doing his part in the preparation of the new Easter Seal Center of the Marin Society for Crippled Children and Adults, Inc. Young, who likes gardening, planted flowers as part of the landscaping of the grounds around the new center on San Rafael's Mission Avenue. He is an active member of the society's adult recreation section.

as a dispensary of hope for all of Marin's handicapped.

This labor of love serves not only as a headquarters for the Marin Society for Crippled Children and Adults, Inc., but it also houses recreation rooms for the handicapped, Marin's highly successful speech and hearing clinic, and board meeting rooms that are also used by other volunteer health organizations.

Dedication rites will be held tomorrow at 2 p.m. at the center with Rev. Dare Morgan, S.J., of the faculty of St. Ignatius High School in San Francisco, officiating. The priest is the son of Mrs. Dare Morgan of San Anselmo, a charter member and past president of the society.

OPEN HOUSE will be held at the center from 1 to 3 p.m.

Diversified and dramatic are the hundreds of cases handled during a year by the society which has as its only means of support the annual Easter Seal campaign, now in its closing weeks.

Included in the general care provided by the society directly to individuals are: Medical care, hospitalization, corrective treatment or appliances, speech and hearing therapy, and rehabilitation of the physically handicapped children and adults of Marin County. These services are available to crippled individuals who cannot pay and are ineligible for aid from other agencies.

Babies' lives have been spared and the elderly and infirm, crippled and without care, have been given the concrete and moral support they so badly needed. The fears of handicapped children have been allayed by the direct care given them by the society.

The organization takes up the overflow of cases which have been referred by the Marin County Health Department, Marin County Welfare Department, Crippled Children Services and other tax-supported agencies.

The power of the public's dollar donations to bring about physical and mental improvements of a near-miraculous nature is demonstrated in many cases.

There is the case of a 4-year-old girl, who at the age of five weeks was hit in the head with a rock thrown by a neighbor boy. A cyst developed on her brain, halting physical development on the left side and impairing speech. The society has given aid through special teaching and speech therapy.

THE FAMILY of a left-arm amputee was helped when the society provided a new mechanical arm for the patient, and special teeth extraction work was made possible for his 12-year-old son who has a heart condition which precludes the use of anesthesia.

A young woman whose speech could not be understood received 26 weeks of speech therapy which enabled her to become self-supporting.

A 7-year-old boy was considered mentally retarded because of behavoir blamed on lack of oxygen at birth. He needed daily teaching to determine his true potentialities. The society paid for day school at The Cedars for three months at a cost of $60 per month. His intelligence quotient rose from 50 to well over 100.

WITH 22 YEARS of such achievements behind it, it is not surprising that the society's appeal for assistance in the renovating of its new Easter Seal Center met with a ready response from the public.

And that the handicapped themselves were in the front ranks among the volunteers.

They Speak For Our Animals

Posters, Scrapbooks Plead Cause Of Voiceless Ones

By DON KEOWN

The Marin County Humane Society was founded back in 1907 by Miss E. H. Tompkins of San Anselmo.

As the moving spirit of the society, one of her first acts was to initiate, with the assistance of her sister, the late Mrs. J. W. Carey, and such educators as the late James B. Davidson, a program of humane education within the public schools.

MISS TOMPKINS personally spoke on the need for kindness and understanding of animals to high school students.

Mrs. Carey delivered similar talks before grammar school children.

In 1913 Mrs. E. Floyd Jones of Ross joined the two sisters as the society's "speakers bureau."

Through the years many others have carried on such work in the schools.

"With our boys and girls in schools exposed to a well-rounded, logical and pleasant educational program on humanity, we need have no fear," the society believes.

The society continues to emphasize the bringing of its beliefs to the school children. But another approach has largely replaced the old classroom talks.

NOW, ONCE a year, during National Humane Education Week—also Be Kind To Animals Week — the society's educational committee sponsors an intensive competition and exhibition of posters, scrapbooks, essays, figurines and photographs.

The event ends with a showing of the entries, open to the public.

In recent weeks school pupils throughout Marin have been hard at work on scrapbooks, posters and essays for this year's competition. The deadline for entries passed yesterday. National Humane Week begins tomorrow and will be observed through next Saturday. And the high point of the Marin observance will be the annual exhibition of the students' posters, scrapbooks, etc., to be held at San Rafael's E Street School.

The exhibit will be open to the public from 2 to 5 p.m. on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of next week.

Last year the competition attracted 209 posters, 57 ceramic and paper mache models, 20 scrapbooks, 16 essays and 63 photographs.

The event has grown steadily since it was inaugurated in the 1920s. As a result, the exhibit once conducted in various vacant stores was moved in 1940 into the more spacious auditorium of the E Street School.

The photographic division is open to adults as well as youngsters. Entries in the other divisions are restricted to school students.

This year special emphasis has been placed on the essay competition.

"The society believes that nothing helps fix humane ideals in children's minds better than setting such ideals down in writing," explains Mrs. Doris Pollock of the education committee.

The children are reminded that legend has it that the first composition ever written by young Abraham Lincoln dealt with the need for kindness to animals.

Of the popular poster division, Mrs. Pollock says:

"An interest in nature study and animal life is a part of the subject matter in most schools. Preparing humane posters provides an opportunity to integrate these and other studies with a growing, kindly attitude for all living creatures.

"Sympathy and consideration for them is aroused when the children learn that members of the animal kingdom can suffer pain and distress from neglect or acts of cruelty."

Scrapbooks, too, provide "another means to promote the character building of the child by an understanding of universal kinship; to foster a deeper understanding of and sympathy with man's relations — the animals — who cannot speak for themselves."

After the exhibit, the scrapbooks are turned over to agencies which use them to entertain, enlighten and cheer ill and handicapped children.

THE HUMANE society is well aware that its educational program, to be effective, cannot be confined to a single week of the year. It encourages a year-long effort to bring home to Marin's young people principles of humane behavior.

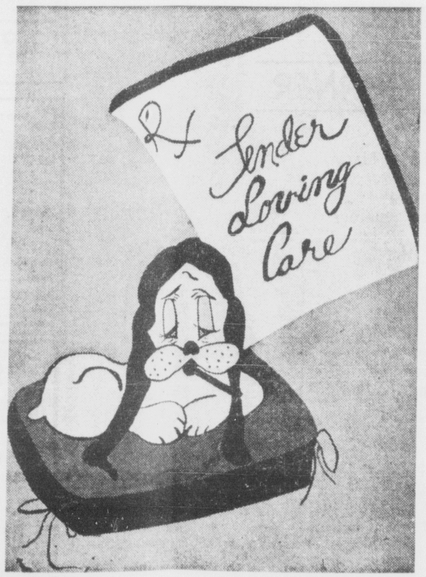
But the once-a-year competition and exhibition, it is felt, serves to dramatize the cause and stimulate interest in it among the school pupils.

Unfortunately, the society feels, not all teachers encourage their pupils to participate.

The humane society's first animal shelter was located in a dilapidated blacksmith shop on Third Street in San Rafael. The present building, at 402 Third Street, was dedicated in June of 1951. Now, the society feels, those quarters have been outgrown.

A HUNT FOR a new shelter site has been under way for five years. If and when one is found, not only the animals, but their good friends, the boys and girls who care about them, will be remembered as well. For tentative plans call for the construction of educational facilities as part of the new animal shelter building.

Then, the society believes, it will be in a position to recruit even more boys and girls to the ranks of animal lovers.



SLEEPY HOLLOW SCHOOL student Karen Harris has special reason for her interest in entries in the Humane Education Week School Exhibit. She was last year's winner in the scrapbook division. An animal lover who once planned a career as a veterinarian, she now hopes to become a dog kennel owner. (Independent-Journal photo)

A Theater Veteran Analyzes Work Of Major Playwrights

THE CONTEMPORARY THEATER by Allan Lewis, Crown Publishers, 312 pages, $4.95. Reviewed by Don Keown.

From Ibsen to Beckett and Miller, theater veteran Allan Lewis analyzes the contributions and influences of the men he regards as the most significant playwrights of our times.

His purpose is to give the reader better understanding of the theater of today.

The general, chapter-by-chapter format is this:

Some brief biographical information about the career of the playwright under study, an analysis of some of his major works, a more general overall look at his output, and finally a summation of his influence on the theater.

He begins with Ibsen as the man who set the pattern for modern drama—realism about the middle classes. The men who followed are those who, Lewis feels, were not content to be mere imitators, but who have sought, with varying degrees of success, to advance what Ibsen started.

Among them are Strindberg, Chekhov, Shaw, Gorky, Pirandello, Eliot, O'Casey, Giraudoux, Sartre, Camus, Brecht, Lorca, Beckett, Ionescu, Genet, Williams and Miller.

Few will agree with all of Lewis' evaluations and conclusions. But they are forcefully presented and worthy of your contemplation if you are a theater buff. The result should be new insight that will increase your understanding and enjoyment of the play.

A Smart Chump

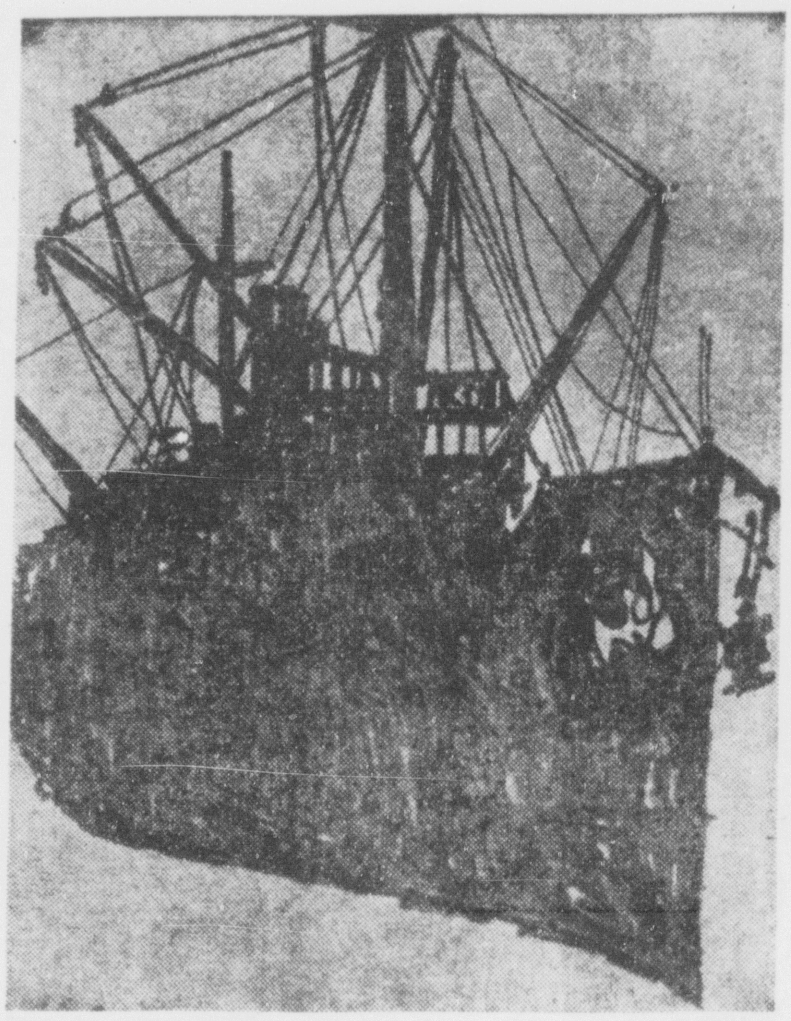
TO HELL IN A HANDBASKET by H. Allen Smith, Doubleday and Co., 341 pages, $4.95. Reviewed by Barbara Hosmer.

Though in his introduction humorist Smith says he is fast losing his sense of humor because of the "idiot world in which I live," he retains sufficient to entertain through this book, the first part of his autobiographical adventures.

For the second volume, which he expects to get to in a few years, and, says he, by that time the bombs will probably be falling, there is promise of how a mere gent from Little Egypt, Ill., grew to become a literary humorist.

But in the meantime Smith fans will have to rest content with this account of the early years, the travels to Sebring, the event-filled years on the Denver Post and finally the New York scene when Park Row was regarded as the mecca for the flora and fauna of American journalism. With United Press and later as rewrite man for the World-Telegram, he participated in or initiated enough escapades to keep a reader happy to the end.

If you think you're the sterling Mr. Bumble and goofer-upper of prime opportunity, then try Smith, surely one of the smartest chumps around.



THE JACKET ART for "Murder Bound," new Macmillan mystery by Poul Anderson, is the work of The Strimbans. It's a story of terror that begins aboard a merchant ship at sea, and winds up violently in San Francisco.

Murder In S.F.

MURDER BOUND by Poul Anderson, the Macmillan Co., 198 pages, $3.50. Reviewed by Don Keown.

Trygve Yamamura, the half-Norwegian, half-Japanese detective, tackles another bizarre mystery.

Author Anderson uses as his background, first a Norwegian freighter at sea, then San Francisco. And he handles them exceedingly well. Atmosphere seems to be his strongest point.

Characterizations — mainly Scandinavian seafaring men —are also well done.

The plot is generally sound and the story line offers action aplenty. You may or you may not share our feelings that Anderson's key "gimmick" is a little hard to accept. But by the time it is revealed you will be completely hooked by this imaginative tale of terror at sea, in Golden Gate Park and at Cliff House and in no mood to quibble too much over this detail.

Traveling Cheap

LOS ANGELES, SAN FRANCISCO AND LAS VEGAS ON $5 AND $10 A DAY by John Wilcock, Crown Publishers, $1.50, 190 pages. Reviewed by Don Keown.

Wilcock, British-born columnist for the Village Voice of Greenwich Village, provides data on hotels, restaurants, entertainment and transportation not only for the three cities named in the title of the book but also for several other localities including Reno, Yosemite, Palm Springs and the San Diego area.

He lists hotels that provide rooms which are clean and comfortable, if not plush, and gives the prices. Restaurants listed are seldom fancy. But the meals served are satisfying or better and the eateries frequently are colorful spots. Again prices are quoted.

Big nightspots with stiff cover charges are ignored. But Wilcock guarantees you a pleasant and varied evening if you visit the low-cost places he does list.

The book isn't without its bloopers. For instance, in San Francisco, it's Black Hart, instead of Black Hawk, for jazz. Worse yet, Wilcock describes S.F. weather as "climatically impossible." And almost as bad, he claims steam beer tastes no differently than other beer.

But on the whole, it's a sound and factual effort. And while the book will be of greatest value to Easterners or Midwesterners who are California bound without much dough in their jeans, it also contains a number of tips upon which even the most experienced Californians can capitalize.

Artilleryman's Story

THE GUNS AT GETTYSBURG by Fairfax Downey, Collier Books, 280 pages, paperback 95 cents. Reviewed by Bryce W. Anderson.

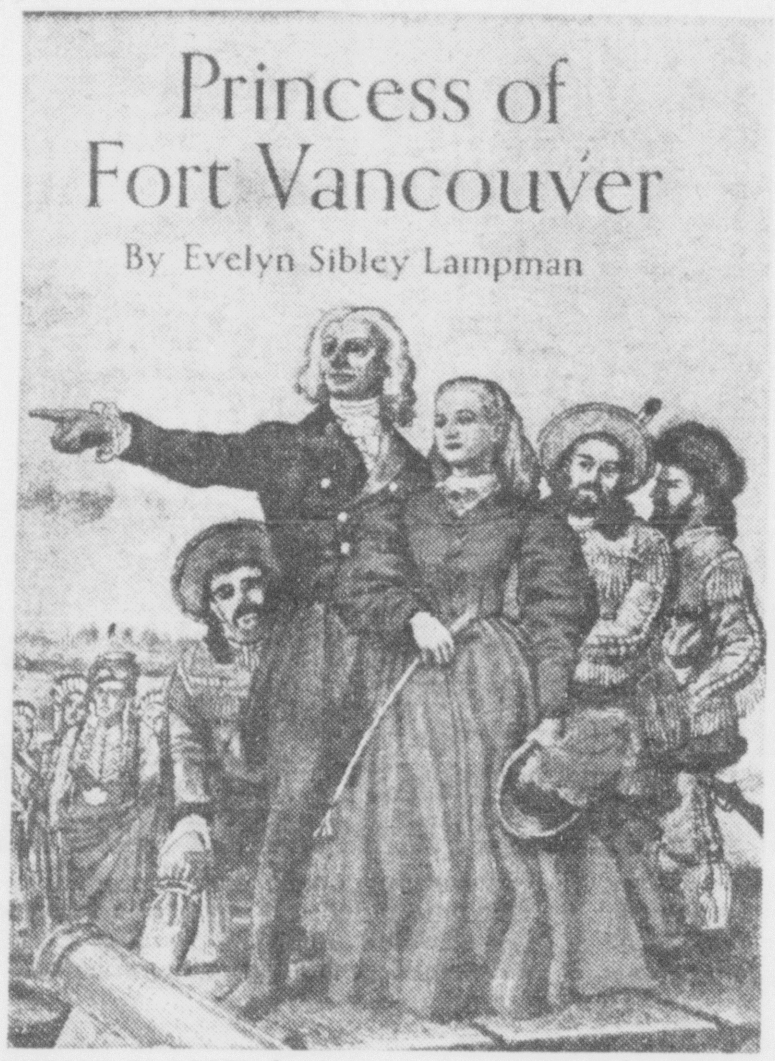
The Battle of Gettysburg was many things, and far from the least of these, it was a three-day artillery duel of violence and proportion never matched before or since in North America.

The guns served by the men in blue and gray on the first three days of July 1863 would be mere playthings in this age of atomic cannon and intercontinental missles. But they exacted heavy, and highly personal, toll of the armies of both North and South.

The cannoneers of the Civil War could usually see their targets, and watch as their shots hit or missed. Sometimes, as happened at Gettysburg, they fired artillery point - blank at onrushing waves of infantry.

Fairfax Downey, an artilleryman himself, has told an absorbing story of these guns and the men who served them in "The Guns at Gettysburg." It is told in detail, and with much quotation from contemporary sources.

The conclusion of artilleryman Downey is that if the Confederate artillery had been properly placed and directed on July 3, 1863, Pickett's charge might have succeeded in routing the oft-repulsed Army of the Potomac. This opens up a fascinating field of conjecture as to what then might have been the course of the Civil War—and of the nation.



HISTORY TAILORED for teen-agers is presented in Evelyn Sibley Lampman's new Doubleday book, "Princess of Fort Vancouver," the true story of a young girl in the Pacific Northwest of the early 1800s.

Real People Are Featured In Book For Young Adults

PRINCESS OF FORT VANCOUVER by Evelyn Sibley Lampman, Doubleday and Co., 282 pages, $2.95. Reviewed by Barbara Hosmer.

The Columbia River country and Fort Vancouver are a familiar backdrop to the author, who lives in Portland, Ore., and she has chosen to tell the story of real persons who served the Hudson's Bay Company at the fort.

The Indians, the trappers and the post men are seen through the eyes of the young girl growing up on the river before the settlers came and chose American over British rule.

Though there is no real plot, the narrative is interesting and easily told.

MARIN POETS' CORNER

MARIN

When first I saw you, green hills of Marin,
Ablaze with lupine and poppies,
I knew I'd never find another place
So alluring, soul-satisfying and so generous
Within its limited boundaries.
Redwoods, columnar and stately, defying
Time and man's swift pace,
Pine and fir and laurel massed
As in no other place,
Ah, Marin, Marin!
The Pacific and the bays
So joyous, clean and blue; so free
The spindrift when the wild wind
Roars and tosses ships at sea
Beyond Marin.

Why travel to the world's far spots
In search of sunnier, sweeter climes,
Higher mountains, bluer seas
Until, dear dreamer, you have roamed betimes
Marin, marvelous Marin!

Ross Teachers Get A Change Of Art

Every three months a new painting goes up on the wall of the faculty room at Ross Grammar School.

Teachers who use the room as a quiet place to prepare their classroom work or as a spot for a few minutes relaxation between classes find the practice a pleasant one.

"It has already become quite a tradition at our school," says Principal Don Leister. "And it's a popular one with our teachers."

The paintings come from the Marin Society of Artists rental service through the means of still another special service offered by the society —a gift certificate.

The practice began a few years back when Mrs. Pauline Lowry, then school secretary, used to rent paintings for the school office. When she departed for other duties, she left behind as a gift to the faculty a $25 Marin Society of Artists gift certificate.

From this gift began the practice of renting the pictures for the faculty room.

AND WHEN the original certificate ran out, the Parent-Teacher Assn. stepped in and allotted $30 for art rentals from funds raised for faculty room improvements.

With rental costs ranging from $5 to $11 per three months, the $30 certificate provides a regular change of art for the teachers for approximately 18 months.

CURRENTLY serving on the faculty committee in charge of selecting the paintings are seventh grade teacher Steve Peterson and sixth grade instructor Mrs. Norma Bergeron.

The artist society also includes among its regular rental patrons such institutions as Ross General Hospital, Irwin Memorial Blood Bank, Ross Valley Clinic and Novato General Hospital; businesses such as the Fairchild Corporation and Cal-Marin Title Co.; professional men such as architect Ralph Priestley and insurance man Fred Banducci; the San Rafael Chamber of Commerce, the Rafael Racquet Club and many art-loving individuals.

Once a year the society stages a Spring Art Rental Show, displaying in Frances Young Gallery at the Marin Art and Garden Center, Ross, the work by Marin artists it has available for rental as well as sale.

The 1962 rental show opens tomorrow with a gala preview from 2 to 5 p.m. and continues through May 31.

ARRIVEDERCI, ROMA

It was a great fight, ma, but we lost. You should have seen the other guy, though.

Seriously, we do thank all our friends who rooted for us to win the trip to the Riviera and Rome. It is always gratifying to discover so many people who have a genuine interest in you, an interest not motivated by personal gain.

The spirit of a contest is always more important than the end result, and this contest lacked none of the ingredients of spirit and good natured humor. Even the staid old factory men were moved to a snicker or two at the rather incongruous sight of a bespectacled gladiator complete with toga, knobbled knees and a pair of fired-up horses.

And the men of Ames Ford were pulling for a win, too. But, I suspect some were inspired more by the prospect of shipping the "whip" out for a couple of weeks than by contributing to the "cause." Nonetheless, the concerted effort was there, more cars and trucks were sold, and commission checks were higher so all was definitely not in vain.

A comforting aspect of the contest was the fact that we did indeed prevail over our avowed adversaries, the "city slicker" dealers, and attained a commendable second place to our "sleeper" opponent, a Sacramento dealer. Like the TV western hero beseiged on all sides by the land grabbers, I guess we should have posted a sharpshooter at the back door.

Now it can be told, though, that I was looking forward with keener anticipation to the Riviera portion of the trip than the stay in Rome. My wife will learn this secret for the first time by reading this here, but I suspect she knew it right along.

Tips on Purchase and Home Care of Your Wardrobe

By Robert & Ronald Casassa, Marin Cleaners of San Rafael, Bel Aire and Fairfax, 454-4792 — Member N.I.D.

"My Gold-Decorated Drapes Lost Designs In Spots"

There may be many more than you who experience this same mysterious difficulty. That is because so many drapery fabrics have been printed with gold and silver metallic designs within the past year.

Your problem might cause you to think your drycleaner had spilled something on your drapes that removed the gold-printed design. That isn't true. Your drapery design is fast to drycleaning solvent, too, although some of the binders used to fix gold or silver metal particles to drapery materials may not be.

In your case, removal of the gold particles in certain areas was due to the same old enemy of all drapes everywhere — sunlight. This time the sunlight caused the resin which bound the gold particles to the fabric to break down and lose its adhesive qualities. Then, when the draperies were drycleaned, the gold particles rinsed away in the places where the sun had done its damage.

The only solution for your problem is to keep your draperies away from the sunlight, but that is why you have draperies. Sunlight will always be a hazard to which draperies are subject. Neither your drycleaner nor the manufacturer can help you in this instance.

ANYTHING GOES—

They're Building Ships In Ross Valley

How do you go about building an ocean liner?

That's the problem which the set crew of the Ross Valley Players faced in preparing for the troupe's production of Cole Porter's musical comedy, "Anything Goes," that opens next Friday night at The Barn in the Marin Art and Garden Center, Ross.

The music and fun takes place largely aboard an ocean liner.

AND IN NOT one, but several different sections of the passenger ship.

So the set builders were faced with the Herculean task of constructing five sets—one of them showing the two decks of the sleek ship, the others depicting the cocktail bar, a living room, a stateroom and the ship's brig.

"Anything Goes" not only necessitated the mobilization of the largest cast in Ross Valley Players history, but also the assembling of a record set crew as well.

Professional architect John Thayer designed the sets and supervised the construction.

Felix Desimone not only found time to handle a singing role in the musical, but also headed up the hammer and saw crew.

His aides have included Mario Gianetti, Walter Caetjen, Irving Ritter, Bill Millen, Jerry Mathis and Don Morrell.

Even the hard-pressed producer and director of the play, Charles Sayers, has pitched in and helped with the construction.

Desimone is proud of the feats of his charges.

"The on-stage rehearsals of this play were scheduled to begin immediately following the close of our previous production, 'The Gazebo,'" Desimone notes. "It closed on a Saturday. And the very next morning we had struck its involved set, and had everything ready for rehearsals to begin that day on 'Anything Goes.'"

SINCE THEN the same workers have devoted countless hours to the construction of the even more intricate sets required for the musical.

"Anything Goes," Desimone says, is more than just the title of the new Ross Valley Players production.

It's also the slogan of his hard-working and ingenious set crew.

The end result of their creative handiwork will be on display on the stage of The Barn for performances of "Anything Goes" that are scheduled for May 11, 12, 18, 19, and 25, and June 1 and 2.

Be Sure You Choose A Tree That's Right

It is important, when choosing a tree, to turn your thoughts to the future and ask: "What will this tree do for my garden when it reaches maturity?"

And it is equally important that you give yourself an honest answer.

By leveling with yourself, you will avoid the pitfalls which often plague the man who plants before planning. Your tree will never block light from your home, never entangle itself with wires, never push up the concrete in a driveway with its roots, nor run afoul of the foundation of your house.

It will fulfill the function for which it was planted, enhance the entire garden with its beauty.

The California Assn. of Nurserymen suggests the following checklist of questions which the home tree-planter should ask himself:

Will the tree be in scale with my garden or too big for it?

Will it provide needed shade or unwanted shade?

Will it admit or block light?

Will it blend with other trees and shrubs around it?

What are the seasonal aspects such as bloom, foliage color, foliage or lack of it?

Good Soil Is Must In Garden

It could be stated unequivocally that no factor plays so large a part in the success or failure of a garden venture as the soil in which you grow things.

And it is equally true that most gardeners pay little attention to their soil, leaving to chance an answer to the all-important question of how good it is.

IN THE EARLY years of a new garden, the chances are good that you can get away with such malpractice. For most soils—except the obviously rocky or sandy one — have nutrients enough to support good growth. But as your garden depletes those nutrients you had best start putting some of them back.

Aside from depleted soil, the gardener is often faced with two other conditions: His soil is valueless to start with (i.e. lacking in topsoil or too sandy to hold nutrients) or his soil is so compacted that it will not yield up the nutrients it holds.

His need in any of the above instances is to embark on a soil improvement program.

The surface layer of soil in which plants grow is known as topsoil—a combination of decayed organic matter and decomposed rocks. And if success is desired in gardening, this top layer must be kept in good shape.

The all-important need in this top layer is humus—the great healer — which makes compacted soils lighter and sandy soils heavier. Manure is a form of humus, so is peat moss and leaf mold and compost. These ingredients should be worked into bad and good soil alike, for if they correct the one, they keep the other in good shape.

It occasionally becomes necessary to correct the acid or alkaline balance of a soil, but this should not be done until you have your soil analyzed.

A CHECKLIST FOR GARDENERS OF MARIN

Here is the Marin gardener's checklist for the coming week:

- Use shears to trim ivy back on fences and along walks. Ivy will stand severe cutting back with no ill effects.
- Balled nursery stock should be planted without removing the burlap from around the roots. After the plant is in the ground, cut the tie at the top.
- Plant zinnias, asters, dwarf dahlias and other bedding plants for summer color.
- Seedling tuberous begonias are available and may be planted in pots or in beds.
- Try planting hibiscus in a container. Keep it thoroughly watered and feed it once a month during growth and bloom.

A View Tour Of Peninsula

You Can Share These Vistas Next Thursday

If your home is on the Tiburon Peninsula, then your view is very likely just as important to you as your kitchen or your living room.

Few, indeed, are the residents who do not enjoy vistas of breathtaking beauty from their decks and houses.

AND SOME of the most impressive of these view homes will be open to the public this coming Thursday, 11 a.m. to 4 p.m., when St. Stephen's Guild conducts its 12th annual house tour.

Six homes—one a boat—have been included in this year's itinerary.

The views which tour guests will be able to share for the day with the fortunate occupants of the homes include lagoon, straits, and bay waters, the San Francisco skyline, Mt. Tamalpais, Angel Island, wooded hillsides, Tiburon's quaint Main Street, boats, fine gardens, etc.

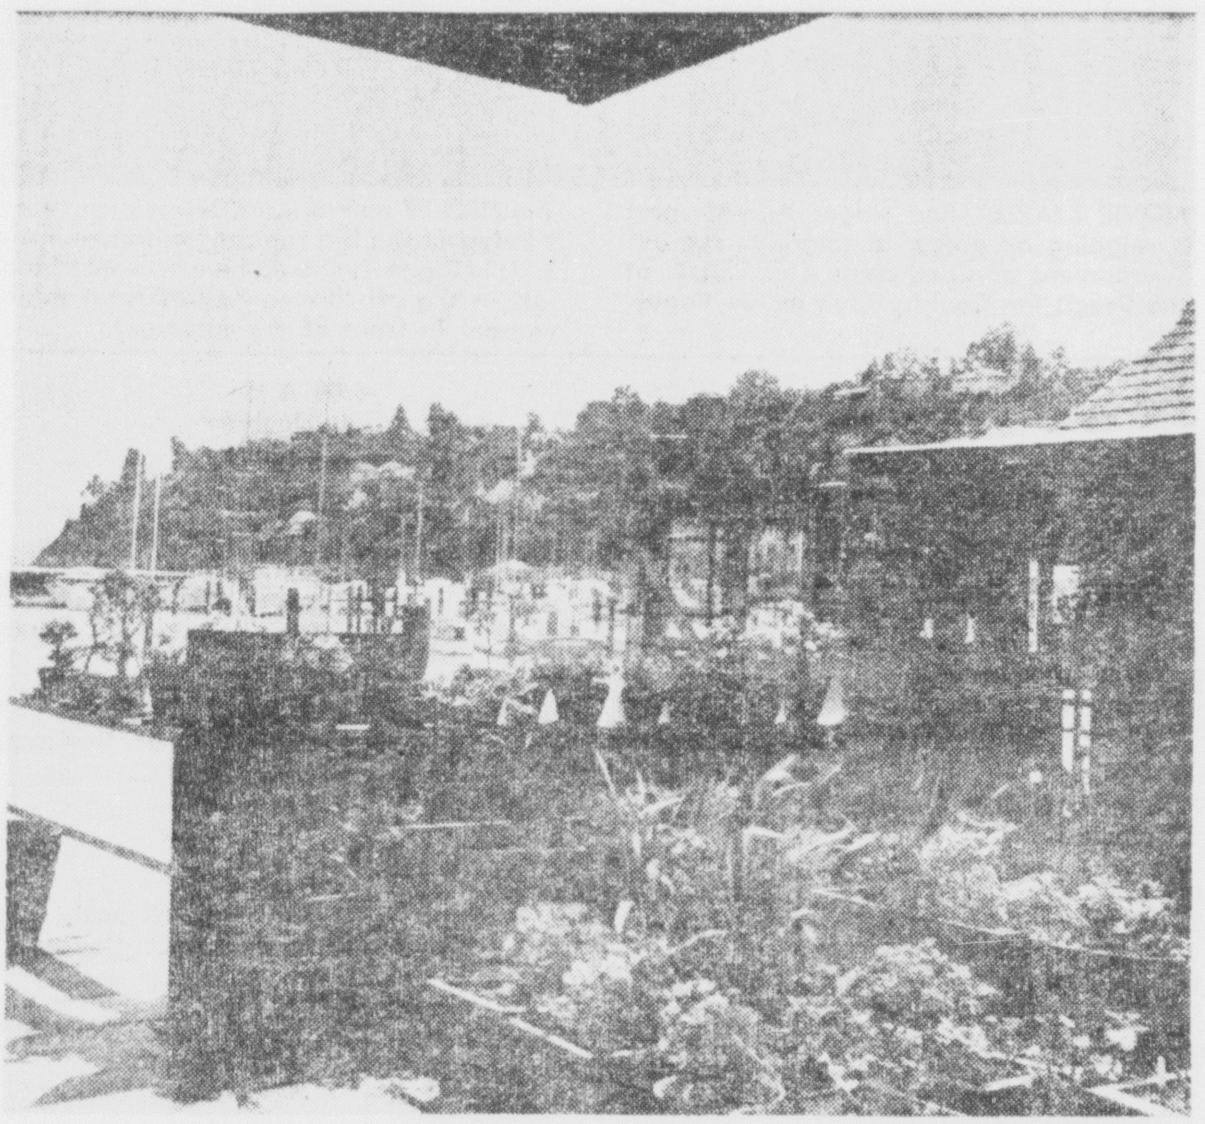
THE TOUR will begin from the San Francisco Yacht Club where tea and coffee will be served during the tour. Moored at the dock will be the first stopping point on the tour—writer Dean Jennings' 56-foot diesel powered boat, a floating home complete with two kitchens, television, radar, et al.

From there you go on to visit five other peninsula homes—some contemporary, some landmarks with interesting histories. But all with extraordinary views.

THINK OF BELVEDERE and view homes—and you think of the lagoon. The placid waters provide not only ideal swimming and sailing, but also a beautiful view for the fortunate who occupy the homes along its shore. The lagoon home of Mr. and Mrs. Josua Eppinger on San Rafael Avenue, included in Thursday's St. Stephens Guild tour, offers this view of the water with homes and hills in the distance.
(Photos by Connie Beeson)

THE CHARMING, GABLED home of Mrs. George Stephens, located on a 38-acre estate, looks down upon Keil Cove's deep harbor, a natural habitat for birds of many kinds. Here a fresh water lake opens into Racoon Straits. A path leads to the cove. And in the distance you can see deep water vessels and Angel Island. Mrs. Stephens, too, will open her home to participants in the St. Stephen's Guild house tour.

CENTURY-OLD OAKS were preserved to contribute most effectively to the vista from the panoramic-view home of Mr. and Mrs. John O'Brien Cullen on Tara Hill. Through the graceful framework of the limbs, the Cullens can see water, woods and mountains. Their hill site also provides them with an excellent view of San Francisco, Sausalito and Mt. Tamalpais.



STILL ANOTHER HOME included in Thursday's St. Stephen's Guild tour is that of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick G. Zelinsky on Beach Road, Belvedere. There the home, built around the ornate dining room of an old sidewheeler ship, sits on pilings. And from its flower garden deck, one can see the shoreline with its moored craft of many kinds, more distant waters, and the wooded hills.

MOVIE STARLET and singer Ann-Margret is reigning as queen of the 10th annual Tournament of Champions golf classic at the Desert Inn Country Club in Las Vegas.

The NBC-TV network (KRON) will carry the windup of the big tourney tomorrow from 1:30 to 3 p.m. It should be worth watching, just in the off-chance Ann-Margret might wander in front of the cameras.

EVEN THE KUKLAPOLITANS are getting into the spirit of the space age. Kukla and Ollie take time off from their five-shows-per-week television schedule (seen here on KTVU) to turn space scientists and ready their own personal missile for a flight into the unknown. Compatriot Beulah the Witch still prefers her broom which, she says, "may be a little slower, but it gets you there."

WHEN IN ROME, you do as the Romans do—which is to sing lustily. So Dinah Shore joins with two of her guests, Rossano Brazzi, left, and Domenic Modugno in a rousing chorus of "Volare." It's all part of the all-Italian "Dinah Shore Show" which will be given a repeat showing over the NBC-TV network next Friday night. You can see it on KRON at 9:30 o'clock.

PRETTY POLLY Bergen and her host, Yves Montand, will do an "encore" performance on NBC-TV next Friday night when the networks repeats its "Yves Montand on Broadway" special. KRON will carry the musical at 8:30 p.m. with John Raitt, Helen Gallagher and Bobby Van joining in the fun.

HELP

Us Make Room For Our New

Designer's Gallery

Furniture is stacked up waiting for the workmen to complete Bellach's wonderful new display area. They need ROOM and we must sacrifice some of the finest pieces in the store to provide for it.

Please Note: This sale applies to floor sample pieces only. To avoid disappointment shop early for the best selection.

KING SIZE BED SET

Imagine real sun stock oak used throughout this magnificent six piece bedroom grouping including a king size bed! Was $749.95, now $499

MODERN WALNUT TABLES

Your choice of any style — end table, step or coffee. Values to $59.50 ..... $19.95

NORDIA MODERN DINING SET

This large modern walnut table (it has three 14" leaves) and its six tall matching chairs was most reasonably priced at $365.00, now look! $249

WHITE PERIOD SOFA

We're afraid the workmen will soil this and it really deserves a good home. Reduced from $715 to $599

OUR FINEST SECTIONAL

This buff colored beautiful three piece set was featured in our window and drew so much comment we ordered it in several colors. Now you can have the original, priced at $1,250, for just $899

COLLECTOR'S CHEST

A most handsome piece in the manner of the Italian Renaissance. An unusual item. Was $209, now $149

LAVENDER SOFA

This is strictly a decorator piece for a person of discriminating taste. The color is striking but just right for someone. Was $669.50, now $499

ITALIAN PROVINCIAL BEDROOM

This is really a tremendous value in the most wanted style today. It is mahogany in its natural color and consists of seven pieces. Well worth its price tag of $829.95, now $599

This is just a sample listing out of more than one hundred items going on sale tomorrow.

CHINA CABINET

One of many on sale. This is antique white and consists of a server and hutch top. The former price was $154.95, sale price just $99

REMEMBER:

This Sale Begins Tomorrow, Sunday at 1:00 P.M.

Sorry, no mail or phone orders. First come, first served.
